Toolkit for Holding Consultations with Refugee Youth

GLOBAL REFUGEE YOUTH CONSULTATIONS

Project Overview

What are the Global Refugee Youth Consultations?

The Global Refugee Youth Consultations (GRYC) were launched in July 2015 at the UNHCR-NGO Consultations in Geneva. A joint initiative of UNHCR and the Women's Refugee Commission, supported by the Youth and Adolescents in Emergencies (YAE) Advocacy Group¹, the GRYC are supported by a Coordinator, Project Officer and Advisory Committee (consisting of national and international NGOs, youth representatives and an independent youth expert).

The formal consultations are taking place between November 2015 and June 2016. They will include national level consultations in Africa, the Americas, Asia-Pacific, the Middle East and North Africa. The 'National Consultations' are led by selected NGOs from that country and supported by UNHCR and an international NGO regional lead. The INGO regional leads are World Vision International (WVI) for the Africa region, Asia Pacific Refugee Rights Network (APRRN) for the Asia-Pacific region, Save the Children for Middle East and North Africa, and the Refugee Education Trust (RET) International for the Americas. Parallel consultations are also being held with refugee youth in North America, Australasia, Europe and elsewhere. These activities will culminate in a global consultation in Geneva in June 2016 and participation by young people in the 2016 annual UNHCR-NGO Consultations, the overarching theme of which is Youth. This toolkit aims to provide direction to NGOs and CBOs that may wish to hold their own parallel youth consultations in their country utilising their own resources and contacts with refugee youth.

Why consult with refugee youth?

Refugee youth are often neglected in the dedicated programmatic responses of the UN, NGOs and other organisations working in humanitarian situations. Youth have skills, abilities and needs that are rarely fully recognised. There is a need therefore, to reach out and hear from them about the challenges they face, their aspirations and what support they need to shape positive futures.

The consultations are providing opportunities for refugee youth to discuss issues that affect them, with host country youth, and representatives from the United Nations, international NGOs and other organizations working with youth in their country of asylum. The process aims to place youth at the centre of decision making processes, especially those that affect them, and to recognize them for their potential. The target group for this project are young refugees that fit the United Nations definition of 'Youth' which is all boys and girls, young women and young men between the ages of 15-24 years.

Global Refugee Youth Consultation Objectives

Underpinning the design of the national consultations are the four core objectives of the GRYC:

- To create structured spaces for young refugees to have a voice and engage in participatory dialogue with other youth and relevant stakeholders at local, national, regional and global levels
- 2. To improve access for young refugees to local, national, regional and global youth alliances and networks
- 3. To foster and support participation, leadership and empowerment opportunities for young refugees
- 4. To consolidate and channel the learning from the consultations into the development of guidelines and policy recommendations on youth-inclusive programming, to improve the humanitarian sector's understanding of, and work with, young refugees.

What do the formal National Consultations look like?

The National Consultations are 4 days long and have two parts:

- A three-day consultation with 20 refugee youth and 5 host country youth working together to be heard, develop ideas, build alliances and networks, and contribute to a process that aims to improve work with and for young refugees globally.
- A half-day 'stakeholder dialogue' where participants share consultation outcomes and recommendations with key local, national and international agencies and organisations.

For more information about the national workshops please contact the GRYC Coordinator at: gryc_coordinator@yahoo.com

Parallel Youth Consultations

The parallel consultations are so named because they are being run separately from the main — four day Global Refugee Youth Consultation - national consultation process, as well as by different actors. As such they are running parallel to this main process. This being said, the parallel consultations are not any less important, actually they will provide many more young people an opportunity to participate in the global process through organising their own, or being a part of a community- or organisation-driven consultation.

Why is this toolkit important?

This toolkit aims to facilitate the participation of UNHCR offices NGO's and CBO's that would like to hold parallel youth consultations in their countries using their own resources and youth contacts. Information gathered during parallel youth consultations will contribute towards the final report on the findings of the GRYC.

This toolkit aims to ensure that the voices of young refugees are heard in a variety of contexts. It provides guidance on how to deliver short consultations, over one day or less, that will gather similar information to the longer formal four-day format. This toolkit has been formulated for easy use by NGOs, CBOs and youth organisations in their countries.

The Annexes at the end of this toolkit contain further information to guide you in the design and delivery of your own consultation and on how to report on the findings.

What are the Core Themes?

Set out below are the core themes that form the basis of the formal four-day consultations. Where parallel consultations are being held in resettlement countries, transit or destination countries of secondary movement, an extra dimension is added on experiences and recommendations of young people from their first countries of asylum:

1. Issues, impacts and solutions

Under this theme, youth participants are encouraged to identify the core issues they face as refugee and displaced youth and to examine the impact these issues have on their daily lives. Youth are also encouraged to start thinking about potential solutions to the issues they have identified.

Sample questions:

What are the main issues and challenges faced by refugee and displaced youth? What impact do these issues have on your lives? Which of the issues is a priority and why? What would be your top 3 priority issues to respond to? What solutions do you propose in order to tackle these issues and bring about change in your lives and the lives of other refugee and displaced youth?

2. The role of youth

This theme aims to gain insight into how refugee and displaced youth view their role in bringing about the solutions they have identified to the issues facing them and their communities. The aim is to provide guidance to policy makers and service providers on how best to engage youth in refugee situations.

Sample questions:

What is youth participation? Is it important and why? What is the role that refugee youth should/can take in the process of finding solutions, bringing about change? What can you practically do in your community/country? How would you like to be involved and what could you contribute?

3. Working in partnership with stakeholders

This theme aims to assist youth to identify stakeholders in their community and beyond who can support them in bringing about solutions to the issuesthey face, to understand the role that different stakeholders play and to learn how best to target them in order to bring about change.

Sample questions:

What governmental, non-governmental and community organisations do you know that can have an impact on refugee and displaced youth — at a local, national and international level? Which stakeholders are already sympathetic and which are not? What assets are there in your community? Who can assist you to implement your suggested solutions? Who do you need on side and why?

4. Recommendations to the international community and other young refugees

This theme aims to capture recommendations and messages from youth participants about how to tangibly improve their lives. The recommendations will be presented to stakeholders for consideration so they should aim to be specific and realistic.

Sample questions:

Based on what you have looked at and discussed during this consultation and your experiences as refugees/displaced young people in this country and/or in countries of first asylum, what are your recommendations to governments, the international community and NGOs, as well as to other young refugees/forcibly displaced persons in relation to the following four questions:

- How can governments, UN organisations, NGOs and CBOs help improve the lives of young refugees?
- How can young refugees/forcibly displaced persons work to improve their own situations?
- What can you do to improve your situation?
- If you are in a resettlement country or on the move what are your specific recommendations to youth in countries of first asylum?

Session Planning

The tools and activities in this toolkit have been drawn from those used in consultations with refugee and host country youth in Malta, Uganda, Jordan, Morocco and Ecuador. Each exercise was designed for and run with groups of 25 youth (20 refugee and 5 national youth). Some of the exercises were run with the whole group, while others were run with smaller groups of 5 – 7 youth, to allow for more inclusive and detailed discussions.

If you are planning a youth consultation, the tools and exercises that you choose will depend on the time and level of facilitation experience that you have available. To help with your planning, we have suggested two variations:

- A selection of activities for a one or two-day consultation, which you might choose to use or adapt
- A suggested agenda and recommended discussion topics for a shorter, facilitated group discussion lasting for 2-3 hours (i.e. half a day)

When selecting tools/activities, consider whether any changes need to be made to suit your local context, or whether there is extra information that you would like to capture.

Tips for a successful workshop

For any youth consultation to be a success, and to complement the approach used in the National Consultations, there are several other key components which should also be integrated, including:

- Games and 'energizer' activities to keep energy levels high and to create some space for fun.
- Youth-led activities or discussions to ensure that the participants have the opportunity to take the lead, to feel ownership of the process, and to build their capacities.
- Ground rules or a group contract to create a safe and comfortable space, which youth should shape for themselves.
- Social and informal time for getting to know each other, for example, the night before the consultation, breakfast or lunch together, a sports or cultural event together, or preparing meals together if time and facilities allow.
- Space for participant feedback and evaluation
- Where possible a range of facilitation methods should be used to keep the consultation interesting and dynamic and to support different learning approaches and expression styles, for example - use of large and small group discussions, use of music, art, and drama, as well as more traditional written or discussion-based activities.
- Interactive evaluation techniques as well as the standardized written evaluation form for participants (see Annex 5), more creative evaluation methods should be utilized to capture the feedback of the youth participants.

Information Capture and Reporting

At the end of the consultation, the following information and completed forms should be submitted in English to the GRYC Coordinator: globalrefugeeyouthconsultation@gmail.com along with:

- Agenda (including a brief overview of sessions and activities)
- Participant demographic information [using the reporting form in Annex 1]
- Consultation Overview [using the reporting format in Annex 2]
- Findings/information captured during the sessions [using the reporting form in Annex 1]
- Photographs and video clips of the consultation
- Completed Participant Evaluation Forms (consolidated in a spreadsheet/word document)

Please see Annex 1 for the reporting structure, Annex 2 for the Consultation Overview Report format, Annex 3 for information regarding note taking guidelines and Annex 5 for the Participant Evaluation Form.

The completed report form should be sent to the GRYC team no later than 2 weeks after your consultation/workshop. All reports must be submitted by 30 June 2016 in order for the information to be included in the GRYC final report.

Information gathered from the parallel consultations will contribute to the final report of the GRYC, which will be reviewed by the GRYC Team and GRYC Advisory Committee. The final report will be finalised for dissemination by October 2016.

Following the Workshop

It will be important for the youth participants to feel involved in the process after the consultation has finished. Consider in advance how this might be possible in your context. For example, they need to know what will happen to the information, who it will be shared with (at both the local, national and international levels), what it will be used for and how it might impact on them and their communities. We recommend that you direct all participants to the global GRYC Facebook page where they will be able to actively engage with the process, get updates on the GRYC, contribute further to discussion and meet virtually with other youth who have participated in workshops.

One Day Consultation

SESSION PLANNING SUGGESTIONS

ONE DAY CONSULTATION

PART 1: Issues, Impacts and Solutions

For this topic, a number of exercises have been developed, which support a group to progress through the stages of identifying issues, analysing and prioritising them, and formulating solutions. Below are several examples of exercises which have been successfully tried and tested at the National Consultations and which you might consider, using or adapting for your purposes.

Various tools have been used in the National Consultations to help the youth develop solutions, these include Problem Tree & Solution Tree, Storyboards and World Café. You may have other ideas, but regardless of the method you choose, we have found that the most important factor is to keep the process simple and logical, and to support the young people to analyse the issues they face (causes and impacts) and develop solutions.

Dependent on the time available, here are some ideas on how to structure these activities:

- Identifying Needs and Issues + Diamond Ranking + Storyboards or World Café Solutions
- Identifying Needs and Issues + a quick ranking or voting exercise to prioritise issues + Storyboards or World Café Solutions
- A group brainstorm activity to identify key issues + a quick voting or ranking exercise to prioritise issues + World Café Solutions or Storyboards

Please note: If time is very short, you might consider using simple brainstorm activities to collect ideas, after which you could group the issues together by theme. Small group discussions, with guidance questions or objectives, are also a good way to add more detail to the ideas generated by a brainstorm.

Exercise: Identifying Needs and Issues

Aim	To identify the issues important to the young people in this consultation, based on their experiences as refugees, and to encourage mutual understanding by bringing refugee youth and youth from the host country together for these discussions.
By the end of the exercise:	 Participants should have identified needs and issues that are important to them.
	☐ All participants should have contributed.
Timing
Length	50 minutes
To report back on this	☐ To record any key discussion points around needs and issues exercise, you will need
CACICISE, YOU WIII HEED	☐ To photograph the completed needs and issues sheets
CACICISE, you will liced	☐ To list the main issues/challenges that are identified
Resources you will need for	, , ,
,	☐ To list the main issues/challenges that are identified
Resources you will need for	☐ To list the main issues/challenges that are identified ☐ Flipcharts with large silhouettes drawn on (numbered to

	2 colours of post it notes per groupWriting pens
Room set up	 Flipcharts with silhouettes drawn on put up on the wall at different points around the room (with space between so the groups can talk without disturbing each other)

Steps:

5 minutes:

- 1) Explain that in this exercise we will be focusing on understanding more about the main issues and challenges that refugee youth face and that this is the starting point for developing solutions.
- 2) Divide the group up into the small groups, allocate a facilitator to each group, and ask them to go to one of the flipcharts around the room. Each silhouette represents a young refugee and so emphasise to the group that their experiences as refugee youth should be the focus of this activity.

30 minutes:

- 3) Each group gathers at a flipchart paper and discusses two points –1) needs, and 2) main issues/challenges they have had/faced as refugee youth in a new country.
- 4) Different colour post it notes should be used to record the needs and issues/challenges, which should be stuck on the flip chart paper.
- 5) The facilitator allocated to each group should support as needed.
- 6) The group should decide who will be presenting back their findings to the whole group.

15 minutes:

- 7) For feedback, the groups walk to each flipchart paper around the room to hear each group speak.
- 8) To keep the group focused, to keep to time, and to enable an opportunity to practice public speaking, set a strict feedback time limit, e.g. 3 minutes per group.
- 9) Thank the group for their inputs

Exercise: Diamond Ranking - Prioritising Issues

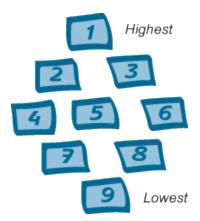

Aim	To support analysis and prioritisation of issues to be considered in relation to solutions, and to initiate conversations about the impacts of these issues, as the group considers them in relation to each other.
By the end of the exercise:	 Participants develop or practice critical thinking skills to evaluate and decide which issues to prioritise Participants discuss their identified issues and reach a consensus as a group
Timing
Length	55 minutes

To report back on this exercise, you will need:	 □ To record any key discussion points around prioritising the main issues, especially the process of selection, which points cause disagreements, and where there was consensus □ To photograph the completed diamond ranking charts □ To list the order of the 9 main issues/challenges that are selected
Resources you will need for this exercise are:	 Flipchart papers with a diamond ranking chart drawn on (one per small group) The needs and issues sheets from the previous exercise
Room set up	 Small groups spread out at 4 points around the room. No need for tables or chairs to be arranged (unless needed for health or mobility reasons)

Steps:

5 minutes:

- 1) Gather everyone in the circle and explain that we are going to do an exercise that helps us to decide what the main issues are that need to be focused on when we develop solutions and recommendations.
- 2) Explain to the group that they are going to look at the list of key issues that they have just come up with and to select the 9 issues affecting youth that they want to focus on to come up with recommendations and solutions over the next two days.
- 3) Show them a blank version of the diamond ranking chart on the flipchart stand and explain that they will be ranking them, with the issue that they most want to focus on at the top, and so on down the diamond.

4) Ask the participants to stay in the same small groups from the last exercise, and to go back to their group's needs and issues sheet, and to stick up their diamond ranking sheet next to it.

30 minutes:

5) Allocate a facilitator to each group to listen and to support if needed.

Note to facilitator: Allow the group to lead the discussions as much as possible. The discussions should represent their own ideas.

6) Ask the participants to walk around the room (quickly) and have a look at the other diamonds.

15 minutes:

- 7) Ask for a group to volunteer to go first with their feedback and gather all the groups together at their sheets.
- 8) Keep the groups standing if possible as they move around the room to each group's sheets to maintain energy and focus.
- 9) Remind them that each group will have 3 minutes to feedback the key points of their discussion and how they made their final selection.

Note to facilitator: Hold the groups to the 3 minutes' feedback slot, so that all the groups have a chance to feedback, and to help them practice giving concise feedback.

5 minutes:

- 10) Quick debrief Ask the group for a show of hands 1) who found this exercise easy? 2) who found this exercise difficult?
- 11) Get some feedback from a couple of people on why they found it easy or difficult.
- 12) Acknowledge that this can be a hard exercise and that naturally people will differ on the order of issues, but this tool helps us with the difficult task of prioritising.

Exercise: Storyboards

Aim	To support the process of developing solutions for specific issues by considering the cause and impacts of the issues, and then developing solutions by considering what needs to be done, and by whom.
By the end of the exercise:	 □ Participants will have discussed the causes and impacts of the issues that they have identified □ Participants will have discussed and identified ways to address the issues that they have identified. □ Participants will have discussed and identified the impacts of their solutions on the lives of refugee youth. □ Participants will have discussed the different roles that youth and other stakeholders could take in these possible solutions.
Timing
Length	2 hours 15 minutes
To report back on this exercise, you will need:	 □ To record key discussion points during small group work □ To record the key discussion points during group feedback □ To photograph the finished storyboards at the end of the exercise
Resources you will need for this exercise are:	 ☐ Flipchart paper pad − 1 per group ☐ Marker pens − for each group ☐ White A4 paper - 6 sheets per group

	 □ Coloured felt tip pens □ Writing pens □ A simple storyboard prepared in advance on flipchart paper
Room set up	 Tables set up with enough chairs for small group work. Flipchart paper and marker pens, A4 paper, coloured pens and writing pens set up at each table.

Steps:

PART ONE

10 minutes:

- 1) Explain that we want to know more about the issues you have raised, and we also want to support you to communicate them visually so we are now going to produce storyboards.
- 2) Ask if anyone knows what a storyboard is?
- 3) Take a couple of ideas and then explain that it is a way of using images to tell a story, like a film director preparing for a movie. Show a simple example on flipchart paper.
- 4) Explain that they will stay in the same groups as they were in when they identified and prioritised the issues, and they are going to focus on 3 key questions for the first three panels of the storyboard.
- 5) Allocate a facilitator per group to support, as needed, and to capture the discussion points on paper.

15 minutes:

- 6) Share the 3 questions on flipchart paper and allow 15 minutes for discussion and for them to write down their ideas:
 - Focusing on the top 3 issues in your diamond ranking chart, discuss and decide as a group which one you would like to focus on now as we work towards coming up with recommendations/solutions?
 - Focusing on that one issue, what are some of the main things that cause or influence this issue?
 - What are the impacts/effects of this issue on young refugees?
- 7) Explain that they will be drawing their ideas for these 3 questions as the first 3 panels for their storyboard, to follow on from their photos.

20 minutes:

- 8) Ask the groups to prepare their 3 panels each on a separate piece of A4 paper.
- 9) When they have finished, the three new panels can be attached to flipchart paper, to make the first half of the storyboard (make sure they are numbered, 1-3, to match the questions)

2.	3.

15 minutes:

10) Get everyone back into the circle and allocate each group a set amount of time to remind the group of their chosen issue, and explain their 3 panels. Allow 3 minutes per group, and space for questions/comments if needed.

PART TWO

5 minutes:

- 1) Explain that they will now be discussing three more questions before they continue with their storyboard.
- 2) Share the 3 questions on flipchart paper:
 - Thinking about what you have discussed in the first half of the storyboard, what solutions would you propose for this issue?
 - Within our communities, what can we do as youth to put these solutions into practice, and from whom do we need extra support?
 - If these solutions were implemented, how would they improve the lives of refugee youth?

30 minutes:

1) Explain to the group that they have 30 minutes to discuss their answers to these questions, and they or the facilitator should note down their ideas on flipchart paper.

25 minutes:

- 2) After they have had 30 minutes to discuss and take notes, hand out more A4 paper and explain that they will be drawing their ideas for these 3 questions as the remaining 3 panels for their storyboard. Their panels should include captions or words to help explain the drawing.
- 3) Each answer should be on a different sheet of A4 paper.
- 4) When they have finished, they can stick their sheets onto their storyboard (make sure they are numbered, 4-6, to match the questions)

4.	5.	6.

15 minutes:

- 1) Bring everyone back into the circle and allocate each group a set amount of time to remind the group of their chosen issue, and explain their final 3 panels. Allow 3 minutes per group, and space for questions/comments if needed.
- 2) Debrief.

PLEASE NOTE:

The storyboards exercise can be run as one continuous session (with a short break or game in the middle) as outlined above, but one method that has worked well in the National Consultations is to break the exercise in half to allow time for reflection for more creative thinking about solutions with peers.

A possible exercise that can be used in the middle is World Café which supports the group to generate multiple solutions to each of the issues. This helps change the pace of the session and provides an opportunity to mix up the groups so new people can meet and work together.

Exercise: World Café – Generating Solutions

If there is limited time available, World Café could be used instead of Storyboards as a means for the group to develop solutions to the issues that they have identified.

Aim	To identify innovative ways of solving the identified issues.
By the end of the exercise:	 □ Participants should have identified multiple solutions to the issues □ All participants have had the opportunity to contribute. □ Participants have begun to think about and discuss why possible solutions could work.
Timing
Length	75 minutes
To report back on this exercise, you will need:	 □ To record any key discussion points around the solutions that are proposed □ To photograph the finished solutions sheets at the end of the exercise □ To collect the sheets at the end of the consultation.
Resources you will need for this exercise are:	Question sheets prepared – one for each table. These should relate to the identified issues, and the sheets should state the issue plus the question - 'how would you solve or respond to this issue or challenge?'

	 ☐ Flipchart paper ☐ Marker pens ☐ Drinks and bowls of sweets/snacks ☐ Music/speakers (for quiet background music if wanted) ☐ A dedicated timekeeper
Room set up	 Tables set up with enough chairs for small group work – spread out as much as possible to avoid distractions. Add drinks and a bowl of sweets or snacks to each table

Steps:

5 minutes:

- 1) Explain that as we've identified many key issues now and we have explored some of the causes and impacts of those issues, we want to start thinking about your ideas for solving them. This exercise will be fast paced and gives you a chance to share your views and opinions while the facilitators will be collecting your ideas on paper.
- 2) Explain that one issue has been allocated to each table and written on a piece of paper in the middle of the table. Participants will spend 5-10 mins at each table answering the question and then move to the next table.
- 3) Explain that a facilitator will act as the note-taker at each table and will capture the ideas on flipchart paper, and remain at the same table throughout.

Note to facilitators: Need strict time keeper to keep the tables to time and to prevent boredom! Everyone should go to each table once.

45 minutes:

- 4) Divide the group into small groups these should be different groups from previous exercises so that participants can work with new people.
- 5) Participants spend 5-10 minutes at each table answering the question and then move round to the next table. (Decide the time limit for this depending on the energy levels of the group there is enough time for 10 minutes per table if wanted).
- 6) Timekeeper and spare facilitators need to keep the groups rotating on time.

15 minutes:

- 7) Ask for the 4 facilitators to share the ideas from each sheet with the whole group rapid feedback 3 minutes per facilitator
- 8) After each facilitator feeds back, participants can briefly comment or ask questions

5 minutes:

9) Finish by asking if anyone wants to add any messages or recommendations to the ideas wall based on what we have discussed and proposed. Reminder to make sure that the recommendations should be ideas that would have a significant impact on the lives of refugee youth.

PART 2: The Role of Youth

There are many exercises or activities that could be run to explore the role of youth in practical action, but here are two examples that you might consider or adapt.

In the context of the National Consultations, we have learnt that it is important to keep this topic energetic and dynamic as it should create excitement for the group and a feeling of momentum to carry forward beyond the consultations.

Exercise: What's your role?

Aim	To provide an opportunity for youth to start considering the types of roles that they can take in the solutions they have identified as a group (before we start talking about the role of other stakeholders).
By the end of the exercise:	☐ Participants will have suggested ways in which they and other youth could take an active role in realising their solutions
	☐ All participants will have contributed
Timing
Length	45 minutes
To report back on this	☐ To record key discussion points about the role that youth exercise, you will need	can take in the identified solutions ☐ To record the specific ideas that youth generate for how they could get involved
Resources you will need for	☐ The solutions from the previous exercise (s)
this exercise are	☐ Paperand pens
	☐ Chocolate or sweets for the group with the most ideas
Room set up	 4 tables with enough chairs each set up for small group work.

Steps:

5 minutes:

1) Start with an energiser to motivate the group for the last exercise.

5 minutes:

- 2) Explain that we want to start thinking about the types of roles and actions that young people could take in making the solutions that we have identified a reality.
- 3) We are going to divide you up into small groups and you will each be allocated one of the solutions sheets that you created with World Cafe exercise [or a list of possible solutions, if no World Cafe exercise].
- 4) You will be given 15/20 minutes to consider the practical actions or contributions that you and other youth can do/make to make the solution a reality.
- 5) Explain that there will be a prize for the group that comes up with the most ideas.

Note to facilitator: This can just be something simple like chocolates. It is just intended to add a bit of competition and fun to the exercise.

20 minutes:

6) Allocate one set of the solutions per group. They can write their ideas on post it notes or just on paper. Ask each group to find a space to work, and allocate a facilitator to join them.

15 mins:

- 7) Rapid feedback to whole group of each small group's ideas. Allow 2 minutes for each group.
- 8) Award the prize to the group which generates the most ideas.

Exercise: Youth Action

Aim	To provide an opportunity for youth to start considering the types of roles that they can take in the solutions they have identified as a group (before we start talking about the role of external stakeholders).
By the end of the exercise:	 □ Participants will have suggested ways in which they and other youth could take an active role in realising their solutions □ All participants will have contributed
Timing
Length	45 minutes
To report back on this exercise, you will need	 □ To record key discussion points about the role that youth can take in the identified solutions □ To record the specific ideas that youth generate through the role plays for how they could get involved □ If wanted, to photograph the frozen images as the groups present them
Resources you will need for this exercise are	☐ Flipchart paper and pens☐ Props if needed
Room set up	 4 tables with enough chairs each set up for small group work.

Steps:

5 minutes:

- 1) Explain that we want the group to think more about the types of roles and actions that they could take in making the solutions that we have identified a reality.
- 2) Explain that we are going to divide them up into small groups.
- 3) You will be given 15/20 minutes to consider the practical actions or contributions that you and other youth can do/make to make the solution a reality ask the groups to note down their ideas on flipchart paper.
- 4) Explain that they will be coming up with 3 frozen images that capture 3 of their ideas, and that everyone in the group needs to take an active role.
- 5) Check if the group understands what a frozen image is and demonstrate to be sure that everyone understands

Note to facilitator: Choose a simple, or amusing, scene to demonstrate frozen images. Be sure that the group understands that a frozen image is like a photo – it captures a moment – so no moving allowed!

20 minutes:

6) Ask each group to find a space to discuss their ideas and prepare their frozen images, and allocate a facilitator to join them.

15 mins:

7) Gather everyone back into the circle and ask each group to share their 3 frozen images with the whole group, and ask a member of the group or the facilitator to narrate for them to explain what is happening in each image. Allow a maximum of 3 minutes for each group.

Note to facilitator: To keep energy levels high or to increase the pace, this could be made into a competitive exercise with the winning team being the one with the most creative or innovative ideas.

PART 3: Working in Partnership with Stakeholders

There are many methods of stakeholder analysis that could be used. In the formal National Consultations, the stakeholder analysis is directly linked to a meeting with stakeholders on the fourth day of the event. If a similar meeting with stakeholders is planned during the parallel consultation, this would be a good opportunity to introduce this topic. The key points to cover in any exercises are as follows:

- Who are the key stakeholders we need to contact/work with to achieve our goals? (at the local, national and international level)
- Why are they relevant?
- Who do we already have contact with, and who do we need to develop links with?
- To turn this analysis into a practical action plan we need to ask: how can we make contact, who will do that, and when?

Two examples of a stakeholders' analysis exercise that might be adapted are as follows:

Exercise: Circles of Influence

Aim	For participants to identify the support networks they already have, and the key stakeholders that they would like to connect with/partner with/contact.
By the end of the exercise:	 Participants will have identified who they already know or have contact with at a local, national and international level Participants will have identified some of the people and organisations that they want or need to be in contact with to bring about the changes that they are recommending
Length	60 minutes
To report back on this exercise, you will need	 □ To record key discussion points from the small groups □ To record the key discussion points from the feedback section, specifically in terms of who they identified and why. □ To photograph the circles of influences sheets at the end of the exercise.
Resources you will need for this exercise are	 'Circles of influence' diagrams prepared in advance (1 per small group and 1 for demonstration) □ Post it notes □ Writing pens □ Masking tape
Room set up	 Large circle and small tables set up for small groups (plus a facilitator per table)

Steps:

5 minutes:

- 1) Gather the whole group together in the main circle.
- 2) Explain: We are rarely able to achieve change alone, and so to make our voices stronger and louder, we need to team up with others who support what we're trying to achieve. These people are our allies. We're going to start by thinking about the allies we already have. To do this we are going to use a tool called the 'Circles of Influence.
- 3) Show an example on a flipchart paper, including some personal examples on post it notes.

20 minutes:

- 4) Divide the group into 4/5 small groups and base each at a separate table with a facilitator either the same groups as earlier or a new group
- 5) Give each group a blank 'circles of influence' diagram on flipchart paper and start adding post it notes from the inner circle outwards, starting from 'you', and then moving out to local community, national level and international level (these should be one colour of post it note)
- 6) At this point, the youth should just focus on who they know or have contact with, e.g. family, teachers, religious leaders, NGO staff, neighbours, members of clubs that they belong to, business people etc.

20 minutes:

- 7) After 20 minutes, announce that we are moving on to the next section of the exercise.
- 8) Explain that in your small groups, you are going to develop your 'Circles of Influence' and we now want you to add to it the people and organisations that you want or need to be in contact with to bring about the changes that you want.
- 9) Explain that you should add the suggestions on post it notes that are a different colour to the ones you have already used.

Note to facilitators: Remind them to think about connections they might want to make at all the levels – local, national, and international, and as they share their ideas, also discuss as a group WHY they have included who they have.

15 minutes:

- 10) Move the whole group back into the circle and collect feedback from each group sharing who you identified and why?
- 11) Be strict with the time and allocate 2 minutes per group to feed back their ideas to the whole group.

OR (if there is less time available):

Exercise: Stakeholder Analysis

Aim	For participants to identify and understand the key stakeholders that they would like to connect with/partner with/contact.
By the end of the exercise:	☐ Participants will have identified stakeholders that they are already aware of at a local, national and international level

	 Participants will have identified some of the people and organisations that they want or need to be in contact with to bring about the changes that they're recommending
Timing
Length	30 minutes
To report back on this	☐ To record the key discussion points, specifically in terms of exercise, you will need	who they identified and why.
Resources you will need for	☐ Flipchart paper
this exercise are	☐ Marker pens
Room set up	Large circle of chairs
	 Access to flipchart board
	 A prepared flipchart sheet divided into 3 columns, with titles of 'local', 'national' and 'international'.

Steps:

30 minutes:

- 12) Gather the whole group together in the main circle.
- 13) Explain: Earlier, we discussed the role that youth can play in the solutions you have suggested and in the storyboard exercise you identified some key stakeholders who could support you to achieve your solutions.
- 14) Explain: We are trying to tackle big issues there, so we need to make our voices stronger and louder, and we need to team up with others who support what we're trying to achieve.
- 15) Put up the prepared flipchart sheet with the 3 columns, i.e.

Local	National	International

- 16) Ask the group to share some examples of the stakeholders they identified through their storyboard.
- 17) Take a few examples and write them on the flipchart in the relevant columns. As someone suggests an example, ask them which column they think it should be in to keep the exercise interactive.
- 18) Question: Why did you identify these stakeholders in particular to support your solutions?
- 19) Question: Can you think of any other key stakeholders who aren't on the storyboards? Think about the columns without many examples in.
- 20) Take a few examples and add them to the relevant columns of the flipchart paper.

Note to facilitators: This discussion should help you to gauge the level of understanding in the room around key stakeholders, and to identify gaps in knowledge.

PART 4: Recommendations

This section should focus on young people's recommendations in response to the following four questions:

- What are your recommendations to governments, UN organisations, INGOs, NGOs and COBs on how the lives of young refugees can be improved?
- What are your recommendations for other young refugees on how to improve their situation?
- What could you do differently to improve your situation?
- If you are in a resettlement country or on the move what are your specific recommendations to youth in countries of first asylum?

Activity Ideas:

- To facilitate and support your group to develop recommendations, there are many types of exercises that you could run depending on the time you have available. For example, you might choose to use discussion groups to identify recommendations and then to produce artwork, drama pieces or short video clips to communicate them.
- For your consultation, you might consider asking the questions in advance so that participants can come to the event with ideas, or they could interview their peers beforehand to collect more opinions.
- You might consider other creative methods, such as a 'Recommendations Wall' made up of multiple flipchart sheets, which is used throughout the parallel consultation as a graffiti-style space where participants can record their ideas whenever they like. This space allows for anonymity, which can encourage quieter or shy members of the group to participate, as well as enabling ideas to be captured outside of formal exercises.
- As an example, the following exercise is run on the third day of the National Consultations and is designed to provide an opportunity for reflection and consolidation of ideas. This also brings the group back to the Recommendations Wall that they will have been adding to, graffiti-style, during the consultation. Through testing, the small group approach proved to be critical to facilitating in depth discussions and for quieter voices to be heard.

Exercise: Developing Recommendations

Aim	To enable the group to reflect on their work during the consultation and to decide on the core recommendations that they want to reach a global audience that will improve the lives of refugee youth.
By the end of the exercise:	 Participants will have been reminded of the main exercises that they have completed. Participants will have identified some of their most significant recommendations or messages they would share that would improve the lives of refugee youth
Timing
Length	90 minutes

To report back on this	☐ To record the key discussion points in the small groups exercise, you will need	\square To record the key ideas and discussion points in the group feedback section
	To record the results of the sticky dots voting and the key messages that are prioritised
Resources you will need	☐ Access to the recommendations/messages wall
for this exercise are	☐ Flipchart paper
	☐ Marker pens
	☐ Sticky dots
	☐ Notepads
	☐ Writing pens
Room set up	 Access to all the flipcharts on the walls

Steps:

10 minutes:

- 1) In the main circle, explain that we are going to think now about the core recommendations that you want to share from this consultation with the global audience through the final report, at the events we discussed that take place next June, with key stakeholders, and also with other young refugees who could learn from your experiences.
- 2) Ask the group to follow you around the room as you do a quick recap of the main exercises that have been covered.
- 3) Explain that we are going to divide the group up into small groups and allocate a facilitator to each group.
- 4) Divide the group into small groups.

45 minutes:

- 1) Explain that each team is now free to walk around and look at what they have done during the consultation, and then find a space in the room or outside with their facilitator to discuss and write down their core recommendations that they think would significantly improve the lives of refugee youth.
- 2) These recommendations should be written on flipchart paper.
- 3) Remind the group that the recommendations need to be brief and clear no more than 1 or 2 sentences.
- 4) Tell the group that they have 45 minutes to complete this task.

20 minutes:

5) Bring everyone back to the whole group near to the recommendations wall, stick up the flipchart papers and ask for feedback from each group. Allocate 3 minutes per group.

10 minutes:

- 6) Explain that all their ideas will be taken forward from this consultation, but for now we want to know which recommendations they most want to share with a global audience to improve the lives of refugee youth.
- 7) Explain that to help us select and so that everyone has a say, we will be voting using sticky dots.
- 8) Each person should be given 5 sticky dots and then ask them to put each of their dot by their top choices for recommendations to be taken forward from this consultation.

Participatory Facilitated Group Discussion

SESSION PLANNING SUGGESTIONS

PARTICIPATORY FACILITATED GROUP DISCUSSION²

Format and Questions

(Duration 2-3 hours)

If time is limited, and a one-day consultation workshop is not possible, another alternative is to run a facilitated group discussion with a group of refugee youth for a period of 2-3 hours.

Suggested agenda:

Duration	Section	Topic to be addressed	Format
15 minutes	Opening and Introduction	 Welcome and introductions to everyone in the room – facilitators and youth Overview of the Global Refugee Youth Consultations Overview of the purpose of this group discussion and its contribution to the GRYC Explain what a consultation is - highlighting that there are no right or wrong answers during the discussions, that their thoughts are their own and no one can take them away from them or question them, and that each contribution is valuable Share the agenda for the session 	Whole group
10 minutes	Icebreakergame	- Getting to know each other and creating a positive atmosphere in the room	Whole group – interactive
60 - 90 minutes (with a break if longer than 60 minutes)	Group discussions	 Challenges/issues faced by refugee youth, and the impacts of them Solutions and recommendations Role of youth Role of stakeholders 	Small group discussions
10 minutes	Break and/or Energiser game	- Time for relaxation and fun	Whole group – interactive
20-30 minutes (depending on the number of	Feedback of key discussion points from each group	 Consolidation of ideas, and opportunity for additional ideas to be added Summary of the discussion outcomes and how they will be used. 	Whole group

small groups)
15 minutes	Closing and next steps	 Wrap up and thanks Details for how youth can stay involved with the GRYC process – e.g. Global GRYC Facebook group, or email address for GRYC team. Any questions/comments? Closing 	Whole group

Suggested format for group discussions:

- Divide the participants into smaller groups of 5-7, and make sure that each group has a facilitator, time keeper and a note taker.
- The facilitator sets up the questions and makes sure that everyone in the group gets a chance to speak. It is also the facilitator's task to ensure that the discussion stays focused on the topic, without steering the discussion to specific answers.
- The note taker is taking notes and will report back after the discussion.
- The time keeper helps the facilitator to watch the time for the group discussion, so that each question is addressed and adequately discussed.

Inform the participants how much time they have to discuss the following 4 questions:

- What are the main challenges that young refugees face here, and how do these challenges impact on the lives of refugee youth/what are the negative impacts?
- What solutions or recommendations would you propose to respond to these challenges, what would their impact be on the community/young people?
- What is the role that refugee youth should/can take in the process of finding solutions and bringing about change? What can you practically do in your community/country?
- In what ways do you think that youth could get more involved/engaged with stakeholders such as governments, UN organisations, NGOs and CBOs to help improve the lives of young refugees? Do you have examples of this working well? What support is needed to ensure the meaningful involvement or participation of young people in these organisations?

ANNEXES

ANNEX 1: Reporting Structure

The information you collect in your consultation is very important, and to ensure that we can utilise it within the wider GRYC project, we need to collect the same information from everyone who participates.

To share the findings of your workshop/discussion group with the GRYC team, please complete all 3 sections of the following reporting form in English and submit by email to: globalrefugeeyouthconsultation@gmail.com

This should be sent no later than 2 weeks after your consultation/workshop. The deadline for submission of all information to be included in the GRYC final report is 30 June 2016.

Reporting Form

1.	Consultation Overview:
a)	Consultation location (please specify town/city and country):
b)	Consultation format: (please tick one box) Half day consultation One-day consultation Discussion group Other (please explain):
c) d)	Name of lead organization: Contact person at lead organization: Name: Job title: Email address:

2. Demographics of Participating Youth:

A breakdown of young people consulted with must be provided, and will include the following information:

YOUTH PARTICIPAN	TS – DEMOGRAPHICS
Total number of participating youth
Number of participants over 18 years
Number of participants under 18 years
Gender – number of males
Gender – number of females

Gender – number identifying as 'other'
Countries of origin of participants (list)
Length of time in host country
(weeks/months/years)
Disability – number identifying as 'disabled'
Number who have completed primary education
Number of participants who have completed

3. Working in partnership with stakeholders
Please include ALL ideas that the participants have about the best ways that refugee youth can engage and work with stakeholders to bring about positive changes for refugee youth (including summaries of discussions and conclusions reached and direct quotes). Please include any ideas on the challenges that refugee youth experience in relation to engaging and working with stakeholders (including summaries of discussions and conclusions reached and direct quotes).

4. Recommendations Please include ALL ideas that the participants have in response to the following four questions (including summaries of discussions and conclusions reached and direct quotes):
a) What are your recommendations to governments, UN organisations, INGOs, NGOs and COBs on how the lives of young refugees can be improved?
b) What are your recommendations for other young refugees on how to improve their situation?

ANNEX 2: Overview of Consultation Report Format

Please include the following information in the Overview Report:

- 1. A brief overview of the consultation including the following information:
 - Dates and Location
 - Details about National Partners/Facilitators
 - Overview of Youth participants profiles/demographics/selection process
 - Content of consultation

2. Key Findings:

- Provide a summary of the five to ten main themes that emerged from the consultation/facilitated discussion with youth participants, including a brief description of the discussions on each of these themes
- Describe any unusual/unexpected themes that emerged during the discussions?
- Give an overview of five to ten main solutions discussed by youth during the consultation and a brief description of the discussions around each of these solutions.
- Discuss the roles that youth felt they could play in realizing these solutions, and the roles they identified for stakeholders in seeking solutions.

3. Key Recommendations:

- Provide a summary of the top five to ten recommendations to come out of the consultation/facilitated discussion with a brief description of the discussion around each of these recommendations
- Describe any core messages to have emerged from the consultation

4. Next steps/Future Action:

- Describe the next steps/future actions for after the consultation/facilitated discussion?
- Explain the future actions planned for youth and future actions for stakeholders (including government/UN/NGOs):
- 5. Please highlight any other general observations about the consultation that you think are important and have not been included above.

ANNEX 3: Preparatory Tasks

This task list is a condensed version of the tasks involved in the set-up of the National Consultations to support you to prepare for your consultation.

Persor	nnel
	Recruitment of facilitators
	Determine interpretation needs and recruit interpreters if required
	Allocate staff to key support roles, e.g.
	• Logistics Administration
	Note taking
	 Photography and videography
	Social media
	 Coordinating evening activities (if consultation is residential)
Conte	nt preparation
	Arrange meeting(s) of facilitation team to review, adapt and prepare session plans and activities
	 Adaptations should take into account, for example - time, language, experience, and any specific needs in the group
Logisti	cs & Administration
	Identify and confirm venue
	Identify and confirm accommodation, if required
	Arrange transportation to and from venue
	Check catering requirements (e.g. allergies and food intolerances)
	Check health conditions
	Check re disability and specific access requirements for transportation, venue and accommodation
	Establish medical plan for the consultations
	Prepare stationery and equipment
	Prepare certificates Prepare evaluation forms
Dissen	nination and Application Processes
	Determine dissemination strategy and agree timeline
	Disseminate application forms to youth/partner organisations
	Identify selection panel
	Review applications, select, and notify youth
Drotos	tion
Protec	Determine any protection actions required, e.g. identifying chaperones for under 18s or considering allocation of rooms if the consultation is residential
	Ensure that consultation team members sign your organisational child safeguarding policy
	Identify specific protection concerns within the group

Distribute consent and media release forms to parents of participants under 18 and participation agreements and media release forms to youth over 18

• Include a briefing session on this with parents/youth if required, to ensure informed consent

Next steps

- Prepare plan of action for engaging youth after the consultationPrepare final report and send to GRYC team

ANNEX 4: Facilitators and Interpreters

These guidelines are a condensed version of the guidelines used during the National Consultations.

Selecting and managing facilitators:

Facilitators should have experience of participatory facilitation methodologies
Facilitators should have experience of youth and/or community work
Facilitators should have experience of working directly with vulnerable youth Ideally, facilitators should have prior experience of working with refugees, or at least a knowledge of and interest in refugee situations

Facilitator Tips³

- Think about some of the barriers to gathering everyone's voices (one person dominating the conversation, people too nervous to speak up, language barriers, etc.). What can you do to ensure that everyone has the chance to offer an opinion?
- Think about how you will keep young people engaged when they are in the consultation, such as different ways of moving around the space, ice-breakers, warm-ups, or energisers that can keep engagement levels high. If something is not working, change it!
- Have you explained concepts using language that is easily understandable (avoiding jargon and acronyms, for example)? Have you considered the level of understanding of the GRYC process?
- Think about how you will give participants a chance to take the lead during the consultation.
 Could they facilitate some of the group discussions or take the lead in summarising the group discussions?
- Make sure that it is possible for everyone to participate, not just those with the loudest voices - think about ways in which you can check that everyone has understood the information (for example by asking participants to recap the main points at the end of each activity or session) and ways in which you can ensure that everyone has a chance to speak (for example by making sure it is not always the same participants presenting, with a gender balance from those who are speaking).
- Ensure that there are multiple forms available for participants to contribute e.g. mixture of oral presentation, drawings, mind maps etc. This is due to the fact that many participants may have excellent ideas to contribute but may not be comfortable expressing these verbally.

Recruiting Interpreters⁴

Key questions to consider when recruiting/selecting your interpreters:

- Are there enough interpreters available for the size of the group, the number of languages, and the needs of the facilitation team?
- Does the interpreter have prior experience of working with refugees, or at least a knowledge and interest in their situation?

³ Adapted from Open Ended Consultations with Youth: An Open Source Manual. UN Major Group for Children and Youth World Humanitarian Summit Working Group. http://issuu.com/unmgcy/docs/guide-for-un-mgcy-whs-working-group

⁴ Adapted from Working with Interpreters: The Most Important Part of the Team: As soc. Prof. Eileen Pittaway, Centre for Refugee Research, University of New South Wales, Australia

- Does the interpreter have experience of working with youth?
- If there is more than one interpreter, have you ensured that both sexes have been represented?
- If there is just one interpreter for an individual or small group, have you checked with the participant/s whether they would be more comfortable with a male or female facilitator?
- Does the interpreter understand and are they comfortable with the methods, approach and purpose of the Consultation?

ANNEX 5: Note Taking⁵

These guidelines are a condensed version of the guidelines used during the National Consultations.

Why does the note-taking role matter? A good set of notes will give value to the thoughts and opinions that the young people share during the consultation. The notes will eventually inform the drafting of the final GRYC report.

This is a full time role during a workshop: Designated note taker should have note-taking as their primary function during the consultation. The notes must be made as the activities are happening, and not afterwards.

Key Skills of a note taker

- Good active listening skills
- Good observation skills
- Good writing skills
- Able to take comprehensive notes

Key qualities of a note taker

- Act as an observer, not as a participant
- Remain impartial (i.e., do not give her/his opinions about topics, because this can influence what people say)
- Be detailed when taking notes and avoid personal interpretation

Materials Needed During Note Taking

- Hard copy of the agenda, session plans and reporting forms
- Notepad
- Pen/pencil
- 1 camera

During the Consultation

 $There \ are \ four \ core \ are as \ of \ information \ capture \ and \ translation \ to \ keep \ in \ mind \ for \ the \ consultation$

- 1. Effectively and efficiently capturing the ongoing content and outcomes of the whole group discussions
- 2. Capturing the key discussion points and outcomes from the small group work
- 3. Ensuring that all the flipcharts and materials that the youth produce are collected and typed up in English
- 4. Photographs (and video clips, if possible)

⁵ Adapted from two sources: Designing and Conducting Focus Group Interviews. Krueger, R.A. University of Minnesota. 2002. & Understanding Focus Groups: Facilitation and Note Taking: Technical Assistance Brief. New York City Prevention Resource Centre – The Children's Aid Society.

ANNEX 6: Selection of Youth Participants

These guidelines are a condensed version of the guidelines used during the National Consultations.

Objectives

- To bring together a diverse mix of participants representing a broad cross section of youth
- To include youth who are often excluded from consultation processes
- To ensure that participants are familiar, or at least comfortable, with participatory workshops, and are willing to fully engage in open discussion, debate and group work activities

Minimum criteria for youth and target numbers

Participating youth must be:

- Aged 15-24
- A refugee
- Willing and able to participate in the full consultation or discussion group

Diversity - what to consider when recruiting for the Consultation⁶

- Do participants represent the full age range of 15-24?
- Is there approximately a 50/50 balance between male and female?
- Is their representation from different religious groups?
- Have you included young people with disabilities? (e.g. blind or partially sighted, deaf, limited mobility or in a wheelchair, young people with learning disabilities, etc.)
- Have you included young people with different education levels?
- Have you included young people who are often excluded due to a lack of mobility (e.g. head of household, caregiver, responsibility for household chores etc.)?
- Have you included young people from different geographical areas?
- Have you included young people of different nationalities?
- Are young people of different economic status represented? (i.e., are people living in the poorer areas of the community being given an opportunity to participate?)
- What is the ethnic mix among the refugee and host communities? Is this well represented in these consultations?
- Have you included LGBTI youth? (lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, intersex)
