A South Sudanese refugee at the Leitchour camp in the Gambella region of Ethiopia, near the border with South Sudan. Refugee camps in the border area were recently flooded by heavy rains and storms, leaving mud huts completely covered in water. Many refugees had to find temporary shelter in nearby villages. The Leitchuor refugee camp housed over 40,000 refugees in October 2014, before disaster hit.

(1) Global Trends

During the first half of 2014, conflict continued to result in the displacement of millions of refugees and internally displaced persons (IDPs) globally causing significant changes in the trends and number of refugees, asylum-seekers, IDPs and others of concern to UNHCR. In this context, management of humanitarian crises is increasingly complex, including with regard to the production of timely and comprehensive statistics.

HIS REPORT IS THE SECOND OF ITS KIND, analyzing displacement trends within the first half of 2014. The figures in this report were collected from governments and UNHCR offices around the world. UNHCR introduced a new online data collection tool to enhance the organization's capacity to collect and analyse mid-year statistical data. In addition to improving the timeliness and comprehensiveness of mid-year reporting from UNHCR offices, the new tool allows the organization to make the actual data available publically as well as in this report.

Unless otherwise specified, figures are limited to events occurring up to 30 June 2014. The statistics included in this report should be considered provisional and subject to change, especially in regard to asylum trends.

GLOBAL TRENDS

Between January and June 2014, UNHCR offices reported an estimated 5.5 million new forcibly displaced persons either within or outside their own country. As a result, and taking into account reductions in existing populations due to voluntary repatriation, resettlement, revision of figures and other developments, the total number of persons of concern to UNHCR by mid-2014 stood at 46.3 million, compared to 42.9 million at the end of 2013.

The total number of refugees under UNHCR's mandate was 13.0 million by mid-year, the highest since 1996. This is almost 1.3 million persons more than at the start of the year (ll.7 million) and 2.1 million more than in June 2013 (11.1 million). During the same period, the total number of IDPs protected

Global forced displacement

By the end of 2013, 51.2 million individuals were forcibly displaced worldwide as a result of persecution, conflict, generalized violence, or human rights violations. Some 16.7 million persons were refugees: 11.7 million under UNHCR's mandate and 5.0 million Palestinian refugees registered by UNRWA. The global figure included 33.3 million IDPs and close to 1.2 million asylum-seekers.

An updated figure on global forced displacement was not available at the time of writing this report. It will be available in June 2015, on the occasion of the release of the 2014 Global Trends report. • or assisted by UNHCR reached a new high of 26.0 million. That was up from 23.9 million just six months earlier and 5.2 million higher than one year earlier (20.8 million).

1,000,000 500,000

The number of asylum-seekers waiting for a decision on their individual asylum applications was approaching the 1.3 million mark. This constituted an increase of more than 100,000 persons since the start of the year and some 290,000 more than 12 months earlier. In contrast, the number of reported stateless persons remained relatively stable at 3.5 million.

The first part of 2014 also marked a shift in both the balance of the main source countries of refugees and their geographic location. The Asia and Pacific region has been the largest source region of refugees for more than a decade. In view of the steady outflow of Syrian refugees into neighbouring countries, however, the Middle East and North Africa region is now the main region of origin of refugees worldwide. This change has had significant impact on the rankings of the largest refugee-hosting and refugee-producing countries.

2 Refers to persons whose application for asylum or refugee status is pending at any stage in the asylum procedure.

BY ORIGIN

Afghanistan has been the largest source country of refugees for more than three decades, at peak (1990-91) recording more than six million refugees, mostly in Pakistan and the Islamic Republic of Iran. By mid-2014, at more than three million registered refugees, Syrians had overtaken Afghans as the largest refugee population under UNHCR's mandate, a reflection of the continuous conflict and violence in the country. Just two years ago, the Syrian Arab Republic did not even feature among the top 30 source countries of refugees, a turnaround clearly demonstrating the rapid deterioration of the situation in that country.

Even though more than 100 countries around the world reported the presence of Syrian refugees during the first half of 2014, neighbouring countries continue to shoulder by and large the highest burden. This includes Lebanon (1.1 million), Turkey (798,000), Jordan (645,600), Iraq (220,400), and Egypt (138,100). During the first half of the year, the net Syrian refugee population grew by more than half a million persons in these five countries alone.

Syrian refugees accounted for nearly a quarter (23%) of all refugees under UNHCR's mandate by the middle of 2014. Further, Syrian refugees outside their country represented about 14 per cent of the country's resident population at the beginning of the conflict.<sup>3</sup>

With 2.7 million refugees, Afghans dropped to the second largest refugee group under the UNHCR mandate. Despite the voluntary return of about 10,000 Afghan refugees from Pakistan and the Islamic Republic of Iran during the first half of 2014, the global number of Afghan refugees increased by about 135,000 persons. This was mainly due to the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran revising its estimate of Afghan refugees in the country from 814,000 to 950,000. In addition, Pakistan hosted some 1.6 million Afghan refugees at mid-year.

* Includes people in a refugee-like situation.

Somalis remained the third largest refugee group worldwide with l.l million persons by mid-2014, mainly in Kenya (425,700), Ethiopia (244,300), and Yemen (234,800). The overall figure dropped by about 41,000 persons, mainly because of the spontaneous return of 10,000 Somalis and a verification exercise conducted among Somali refugees in Kenyan refugee camps.

With an estimated 670,300 refugees at mid-year, the number of Sudanese refugees remained relatively stable in relation to the start of the year (648,900). In contrast, the outbreak of violence in South Sudan, which started in December 2013, triggered a major outflow into neighbouring countries. The overall number of South Sudanese refugees grew from 114,500 to 508,600 within a span of just six months. By the middle of the year, individuals from South Sudan had found refuge predominantly in Ethiopia (208,800), Uganda (141,400), Sudan (82,000), and Kenya (75,700). As a result, South Sudan was the fifth largest source country of refugees worldwide.

While estimates for refugees originating from the Democratic Republic of the Congo and Myanmar remained virtually unchanged at 493,500 and 479,700, respectively, the number of Iraqi refugees grew as conflict and violence unfolded in their country. As such, the number of Iraqi refugees increased from 401,500 to 426,100 within the first six months of the year, turning Iraq into the eight largest refugee source country.

The number of Colombian refugees, including individuals in a refugee-like situation, remained stable at about 397,000. In stark contrast, refugees from the Central African Republic were for the first time ever included among the top 10 source countries of refugees. The outbreak of violence in the Central African Republic in late 2013 triggered the exodus of more than 143,000 people into neighbouring countries, turning it into one of the most challenging emergencies during the reporting period. Overall, some 381,000 persons had found refuge by the end of the reporting period, including in Cameroon (205,500), Chad (92,100), the Democratic Republic of the Congo (60,600), and the Republic of Congo (16,400). This compares to 252,900 at the start of the year. Many of the new arrivals had already been displaced internally within their country as a result of the violence in late 2013.

The top 10 source countries of refugees combined accounted for 78 per cent of all refugees under UNHCR's mandate. The top three alone - the Syrian Arab Republic, Afghanistan, and Somalia - made up 52 per cent. Half of these 10 countries, it should be noted, are in sub-Saharan Africa.

BY COUNTRY OF ASYLUM

Conflict and violence in the Syrian Arab Republic, South Sudan, and the Central African Republic, among other countries, significantly affected the rankings of the top 10 refugee-hosting countries. While Pakistan continued to host the largest number of refugees worldwide – some 1.6 million refugees, virtually all from Afghanistan – Lebanon became the second largest host country. With an increase of about 325,000 Syrians during the first half of the year, by mid-2014 the country's registered refugee population passed the 1.1 million mark. Lebanon has thus moved from being the 69th largest refugee-hosting country to second largest within a span of just three and a half years.

The Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran, meanwhile, revised the estimated number of Afghan refugees in its territory from 814,000 to 950,000. Together with an estimated 32,000 Iraqi refugees and other populations, the country was the third largest refugee-hosting country by mid-year, with an overall total of 982,100.

The Syrian crisis continued to impact on not only Lebanon but also Turkey and Jordan. Turkey reported a total of 824,400 registered refugees at mid-year, 97 per cent of them from the Syrian Arab Republic. Jordan's figure stood at 736,600 refugees, including 645,600 Syrians and 89,700 Iraqis. In both cases, figures have increased significantly during the reporting period.

Ethiopia was not only the sixth largest refugee-hosting country worldwide by mid-year, with a total of 587,700 refugees, but it simultaneously replaced Kenya as the largest recipient in sub-Saharan Africa. This shift was due largely to the mass inflow of 159,000 South Sudanese refugees during the first half of the year.

With a total of 537,000 refugees, Kenya was the second largest host country on the continent by mid-year, including 42,800 refugees who were recognized on a prima facie basis during the first six months of the year, most of them from South Sudan. Kenya was followed by Chad with 454,900 refugees. The refugee population in Chad has grown from less than 13,000 refugees in 2001 to its current high of 454,900.

Fighting in both South Sudan and the eastern part of the Democratic Republic of the Congo also impacted heavily on Uganda. Some 118,000 South Sudanese were granted prima facie status during the first six months of 2014, as were 13,000 Congolese. By mid-year, Uganda was the ninth largest host country of refugees worldwide, with 358,500 persons, its highest level on record.

The top 10 refugee-hosting countries combined hosted 58 per cent of all refugees under UNHCR's mandate.

NEW REFUGEE ARRIVALS

More than 1.4 million persons were newly displaced across international borders during the first half of 2014. The overwhelming majority found refuge in neighbouring countries or in the immediate region. This figure of 1.4 million refers to refugees who have been recognized on a prima facie basis as well as those who have been granted temporary protection.

Syrians accounted for roughly half of these new outflows (704,400). Most of the other half originated from South Sudan (393,600), the Central African Republic (144,400), and Pakistan (126,400). In addition, some 146,000 persons were recognized on an individual basis, a quarter of them Syrians.

The largest numbers of new refugee arrivals during the first half of 2014 were reported by Lebanon (324,900), Turkey (250,300), Ethiopia (177,500), Uganda (130,900), Afghanistan (126,400), Cameroon (111,200), and Jordan (85,000). Among the top 10 countries reporting large numbers of new refugee arrivals, nine are located either in the Middle East and North Africa or sub-Saharan Africa.

CONTRIBUTIONS OF HOST COUNTRIES

These rankings and distributions change significantly when comparing the number of refugees to the population of the host country (though without accounting for national income and other economic indicators). This indicator measures the density of a refugee population relative to the host country's nationals, implying that the higher the number of refugees per 1,000 inhabitants, the higher the density.

With 257 refugees per 1,000 inhabitants, Lebanon remains the country with the highest refugee density at mid-2014. Jordan (114) and Chad (39) are second and third in these rankings, respectively. With 12 refugees per 1,000 inhabitants, with 404 refugees per l USD GDP. Six months earlier, Ethiopia was second in this ranking, a change that clearly reflects the mass inflow of refugees from South Sudan. Pakistan and Chad were second and third with 334 and

Lebanon remains the country with the highest refugee density at mid-2014.

Sweden is the only major recipient of refugees among industrialized countries included among the top 10 ranked countries for this indicator.

An examination of the relative economic strength of refugee-hosting countries to their ratios of Gross Domestic Product (GDP), measured at Purchasing Power Parity (PPP)<sup>5</sup> per capita, <sup>6</sup> likewise results in wide and diverse distributions among countries. In relative terms, the higher the ratio (1 USD GDP measured at PPP per capita), the higher the burden on a country's national income and economic resources.

By mid-2014, Ethiopia hosted the largest number of refugees relative to its national income measured at PPP, 199 refugees per 1 USD GDP (PPP), respectively. Ultimately, almost all of the countries listed among the top 40 based on this economic indicator were considered developing economies, with more than half of them located in sub-Saharan Africa.

Asylum-Seekers

At least 558,600 individual asylum applications were registered in 172 countries or territories during the first half of 2014, some 18 per cent more than during the same period in 2013 (456,000). An estimated 17 per cent of these claims were registered at 'second instance', including with courts and other appellate bodies. UNHCR offices registered 108,500 individual asylum applications, out of the provisional total of 558,600 (19%).

These figures exclude asylum applications registered with South Africa's Department of Home Affairs, however, in the absence of such data provided by the Government. As South Africa has reported the highest number of new asylum claims globally between 2008 and 2012, and was the world's third largest recipient in 2013, the rankings and global totals in this report must be considered as merely indicative.

NEW INDIVIDUAL ASYLUM APPLICATIONS REGISTERED

Germany (67,400) received the highest number of new asylum applications worldwide during the first six months of 2014. Syrians lodged almost one fifth (18%), or 12,100, of these claims. If current trends continue, Germany is likely to record its highest annual level of asylum claims in almost 20 years. Other major nationalities lodging new asylum claims in Germany included Serbia (and Kosovo: S/RES/1244 (1999)) (8,200), Afghanistan (4,200), and Eritrea (3,900).

Germany was followed by the United States of America with an estimated 47,500 new asylum applications, most of them from Mexico (6,600), China (6,400), Guatemala (3,700), and <sup>7</sup> Estimated number of individuals based on the number of new cases (28,100) and multiplied by 1.356 to reflect the average number of individuals per case (Source: US Department of Homeland Security); and number of new 'defensive' asylum requests lodged with the Executive Office of Immigration Review (14,330, reported by individuals).

Main destination countries for new asylum-seekers

El Salvador (3,700). France was the third most important destination for asylum-seekers with 29,900 new asylum applications recorded, principally from the Democratic Republic of the Congo (3,100), the Russian Federation (1,800), and Albania (1,600). Other important destination countries for asylum-seekers were Sweden (28,400 new asylum claims), Turkey (27,800), Italy (24,500), and the Russian Federation (17,900).

* Excludes South Africa due to lack of data

During the first half of 2014, UNHCR's offices registered 103,000 new individual applications for refugee status and another 5,500 on appeal or for review. The office in Turkey received the largest number of new requests (27,800), followed by Malaysia (12,700), Kenya (12,100), Jordan (10,800), and Cameroon (6,700). The top five UNHCR offices receiving asylum applications during the period under review registered 68 per cent of all new claims recorded by the organization.

BY ORIGIN

Syrians were the largest group of asylum-seekers worldwide during the reporting period, with a total of 59,600 new asylum applications. Germany and Sweden together received 40 per cent of these claims. As a point of comparison, the total number of countries or territories that registered Syrian asylum claims increased from 92 during the first half of 2013 to 96 a year later.

Iraqis were the second largest group of asylum-seekers with a total of 28,900 new applications registered during the first half of 2014, most of them in Turkey (15,700), Jordan (5,700), and Germany (2,100). Other important source countries of asylum-seekers were Afghanistan (26,400), Eritrea (23,300), the Democratic Republic of the Congo (21,700), and Ukraine (20,300).

Among the main nationalities lodging applications for international protection, Total Recognition Rates (TRRs)<sup>10</sup> were around or significantly above 80 per cent for asylum-seekers from the Syrian Arab Republic, Eritrea, Iraq, Myanmar, Somalia, and the Central African Republic. In contrast, TRRs were around or below 10 per cent for asylum-seekers from Albania, Bangladesh, Georgia, and Serbia (and Kosovo: S/RES/1244 (1999)).

By the middle of the year, close to 1.3 million individuals awaited decisions on their asylum claims, a figure that included applicants at any stage of the asylum process. This was the highest such number in more than 15 years. The largest backlogs of undecided cases were reported by South Africa (244,000), Germany (161,900), the United States of America (96,100), and Turkey (66,600).

<sup>9</sup> Refers to 3,000 individuals who applied for refugee status and 14,900 for temporary asylum.

<sup>10</sup> In the absence of an internationally agreed methodology for calculating recognition rates, the Total Recognition Rate is calculated by dividing the number of asylum-seekers granted Convention refugee status or a complementary form of protection by the total number of substantive decisions (Convention status, complementary protection, and rejected cases). Non-substantive decisions are, to the extent possible, excluded from the calculation. For the purpose of global comparability, UNHCR does not report rates calculated by national authorities.

Internally Displaced Persons (IDPs)

Information on the global number of newly displaced persons within their country was not available at the time of writing this report." Based on information provided by UNHCR offices in 25 countries, an estimated 4.1 million individuals were newly displaced within the borders of their countries as a result of war and conflict during the first half of the year. Countries particularly affected by this trend were Iraq (986,000 newly displaced by 30 June 2014), South Sudan (970,000), Philippines (574,000), the Democratic Republic of the Congo (483,000), Pakistan (481,000), and Sudan (395,000).

By the end of the reporting period, UNHCR offices reported a total of 26.0 million IDPs12 who benefited from the organization's protection and assistance activities. This was 2.1 million more than at the beginning of the year. With an estimated 6.5 million IDPs, the Syrian Arab Republic continued to face the largest situation of internal displacement worldwide. It was followed by Colombia, whose Government had registered 5.7 million IDPs by mid-2014. Other countries with large IDP populations by the end of the reporting period included the Democratic Republic of the Congo (2.6 million), Sudan (2.1 million), Iraq (1.9 million), South Sudan (1.3 million), <sup>14</sup> Pakistan (1.2 million), and Somalia (l.l million).

On a more positive note, some 1.6 million IDPs returned home during the reporting period in those countries where UNHCR was operational. This compares to 688,000 during the first half of 2013. Significant IDP returns were reported by the Philippines (518,800), the Central African Republic (359,400), the Democratic Republic of the Congo (246,500), Sudan (129,000), and Mali (126,000).

- 11 The IDP populations reported in UNHCR statistics are limited to conflict-generated IDPs or persons in an IDP-like situation, to whom the agency extends protection or assistance. Therefore, UNHCR's IDP statistics do not necessarily reflect the entire IDP population in a given country, but rather only those who are protected and assisted by the agency. Hence, UNHCR's statistics do not provide a comprehensive picture of global internal displacement.

Stateless Persons

The precise number of stateless persons worldwide is unknown. Yet based on available information and data, UNHCR estimates the total number of individuals under the agency's statelessness mandate to be at least 10 million globally. By mid-2014, statistical information on stateless persons was available for 77 countries or territories, two more than six months earlier. These countries or territories reported a total of 3.5 million stateless persons by mid-2014, a figure that has remained relatively unchanged compared to previous reporting periods.

Khitan, a Syrian refugee woman, and her three sons (one shown in the picture) found shelter in an unfinished building in Tripoli, Lebanon with several other Syrian families. One of her sons was injured when a shell hit their home in Aleppo; another was killed in a separate incident. Her husband and another son remain behind in their war-torn country.

Resettlement

Some 37,000 refugees departed on resettlement with UNHCR assistance during the first half of 2014. This figure was about 4,300 persons more than its corresponding value one year earlier (33,700). UNHCR offices in 74 countries were involved in the processing of these individuals from 57 nationalities.

The largest number of refugees who benefited from resettlement programmes during the first half of the year originated from Myanmar (9,300), Iraq (5,300), Bhutan (5,100), Somalia (4,300), and the Syrian Arab Republic (3,500). Persons from these five countries combined accounted for 8l per cent of all UNHCR-assisted resettlement departures.

Similarly, countries that reported the largest number of resettlement departures with UNHCR's assistance included Malaysia (6,100), Nepal (5,100), Turkey (3,900), Lebanon (3,800), Thailand (3,500), and Kenya (2,100). Together, these six countries accounted for two-thirds (67%) of the global number of resettlement cases processed during the first half of the year.

Refugee Returns

The number of refugees returning to their country of origin continued a downward trend observed in previous years. Some 107,000 refugees returned during the first six months of 2014, compared to 189,300 during the corresponding period of 2013. Some 69,000 of those who had returned by mid2014 did so with UNHCR assistance. UNHCR offices in 28 countries reported the return of refugees, with the largest from the Democratic Republic of the Congo (20,000), Mali (15,600), and Côte d'Ivoire (12,300). Together, these three countries of origin accounted for 58 per cent of all returnees.

Countries with the highest number of refugee departures included the Democratic Republic of the Congo (14,400), Chad (13,100), Liberia (12,200), Congo (9,900), Pakistan (7,400), Kenya (7,300), and the Central African Republic (7,200).

Refugees include individuals recognized under the 1951 Convention relating to the Status of Refugees and its 1967 Protocol, persons recognized under the 1969 Organization of African Unity (OAU) Convention Governing the Specific Aspects of Refugee Problems in Africa, those recognized in accordance with the UNHCR Statute, individuals granted complementary forms of protection," and those enjoying temporary protection.16 The refugee category also includes persons in a refugeelike situation."

Asylum-seekers (with 'pending cases') are individuals who have sought international protection and whose claims for refugee status have not yet been determined. Those covered in this report refer to claimants whose individual applications were pending as of 30 June 2014, irrespective of when those claims may have been lodged.

Internally displaced persons are persons or groups of persons who have been forced to leave their homes or places of habitual residence, in particular as a result of or in order to avoid the effects of armed conflict, situations of generalized violence, violations of human rights, or natural or man-made disasters, and who have not crossed an international border.18 For the purposes of UNHCR's statistics, this population only includes conflict-generated IDPs to whom the Office extends protection and/or assistance. The IDP population also includes individuals in an IDP-like situation.19

Returned refugees (returnees) are former refugees who have returned to their country of origin, either spontaneously or in an organized fashion, but are yet to be fully integrated. Such returns would normally take place only under conditions of safety and dignity. For the purposes of this report, only refugees who returned between January and June 2014 are included, though in practice operations may assist returnees for longer periods.

Returned IDPs refer to Persons under UNHCR's UNHCR those IDPs who were beneficiaries statelessness mandate global references.

Returned IDPs refer to those IDPs who were beneficiaries of UNHCR's protection and assistance activities, and who returned to their area of origin or habitual residence between January and June 2014. In practice, however, operations may assist IDP returnees for longer periods.

are defined under international are defined under international law as those not considered as nationals by any State under the operation of its law. In other words, they do not possess the nationality of any State. UNHCR statistics refer to persons who fall under the agency's statelessness mandate as those who are stateless according to this international definition, but data from some countries may also include persons with undetermined nationality.

UNHCR has been given a global mandate by the United Nations General Assembly to contribute to the prevention and reduction of statelessness and the protection of stateless persons. The agency also performs a specific function, under Article 11 of the 1961 Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness, in receiving claims from persons who may benefit from the statelessness safeguards contained in that Convention, and in assisting both those individuals and the States concerned to resolve these claims.

Other groups or persons of concern refers to individuals who do not necessarily fall directly into any of these groups but to whom UNHCR has extended its protection and/or assistance services, based on humanitarian or other special grounds.

Notes table 1:

The data are generally provided by Governments, based on their own definitions and methods of data collection.

A dash ("-") indicates that the value is zero, not available or not applicable.

- 1 Country or territory of asylum or residence.
- 2 Persons recognized as refugees under the 1951 UN Convention./1967 Protocol, the 1969 OAU Convention, in accordance with the UNHCR Statute, persons granted a complementary form of protection and those granted temporary protection. In the absence of Government figures, UNHCR has estimated the refugee population in many industrialized countries based on 10 years of individual asylum-seeker recognition.
- 3 This category is descriptive in nature and includes groups of persons who are outside their country or territory of origin and who face protection risks similar to those of refugees, but for whom refugee status has, for practical or other reasons, not been ascertained.
- 4 Persons whose application for asylum or refugee status is pending at any stage in the asylum procedure.
- 5 Refugees who have returned to their place of origin during the first six months of 2014. Source: country of origin and asylum.
- 6 Persons who are displaced within their country and to whom UNHCR extends protection and/or assistance. It also includes people in IDP-like situations. This category is descriptive in nature and includes groups of persons who are inside their country of nationality or habitual residence and who face protection risks similar to those of IDPs but who, for practical or other reasons, could not be reported as such.
- 7 IDPs protected/assisted by UNHCR who have returned to their place of origin during the first six months of 2014.

- 8 Refers to persons who are not considered as nationals by any State under the operation of its law. This category refers to persons who fall under the agency's statelessness mandate because they are stateless according to this international definition, but data from some countries may also include persons with undetermined nationality.
- 9 Refers to individuals who do not necessarily fall directly into any of the other groups but to whom UNHCR may extend its protection and/or assistance services. These activities might be based on humanitarian or other special grounds.
- 10 According to the Government of Algeria, there are an estimated 165,000 Sahrawi refugees in the Tindouf camps.
- 11 Australia's figures for asylum-seekers are based on the number of applications lodged for protection visas. The refugee figure refers to end-2013.
- 12 Refugee figure relates to the end of 2013.
- 13 The total figure includes 200,000 persons originating from Myanmar in a refugee-like situation. The Government of Bangladesh estimates the population to be between 300,000 and 500,000.
- 14 The 300,000 Vietnamese refugees are well integrated and in practice receive protection from the Government of China.
- 15 UNHCR's assistance activities for IDPs in Cyprus ended in 1999. Visit the website of the Internal Displacement Monitoring Centre (IDMC) for further information.
- 16 The figure for stateless persons is based on an official survey released in May 2013 by the National Bureau for Statistics and refers to the estimated number of individuals resident in the country who belong to the first generation born on Dominican territory to Haitian migrant parents. No population data is currently available on subsequent generations born in the Dominican Republic.

- 17 All figures relate to the end of 2013.
- 18 Almost all people recorded as being stateless have permanent residence and enjoy more rights than foreseen in the 1954 Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons.
- 19 The figure for stateless persons is an estimate and currently under review.
- 20 Figures are UNHCR estimates.
