I. Introduction

1. The global strategic priorities (GSPs) set out the areas in which UNHCR is targeting efforts to improve the protection and well-being of persons of concern. The GSPs guide the work of UNHCR field operations and Headquarters, as well as the Office's overall strategies and plans. They consist of a set of operational priorities, which influence the development and implementation of country-level plans undertaken by field operations, together with partners and in support of national authorities. They also include a set of support and management priorities that guide the work of Headquarters and regional offices in providing oversight, policy development and operational support to field operations.

2. This paper provides an update on the progress made by UNHCR and partners in 2016 in pursuing the GSPs established for the 2016-2017 biennium. More detailed information on the work undertaken under each of the GSPs can be found in the 2016 progress report on the global strategic priorities, which will be made available on Global Focus,<sup>1</sup> UNHCR's results-based management programme planning and reporting tool.

II. GSPs in the operations management cycle

3. In the beginning of 2015, UNHCR operations undertook participatory planning exercises involving a joint assessment with partners to inform UNHCR's operations plans for 2016. The operations selected priority areas and GSP indicators that were relevant for their context. They set baselines and targets against which progress and improvement could be measured. During the ensuing annual programme review, the alignment of operational plans with the GSPs was examined to ensure that planned activities directly supported the selected GSPs.

4. Throughout 2016, the operations prioritized activities implemented in accordance with the selected GSPs. They monitored the progress made towards achieving the targets and, where necessary, adjusted their operational plans and implementation modalities to optimize the impact of their interventions.

5. UNHCR's field operations collected and analysed programme implementation information and communicated the progress and results achieved through Focus and TWINE,<sup>2</sup> UNHCR's web-based health data gathering platform. The operations, supported by technical experts at Headquarters, reviewed the data to determine the overall progress achieved against UNHCR's global engagements.

III. Overview of progress achieved in 2016 against the 2016-2017 GSPs

A. Operational GSPs

6. Overall, UNHCR operations achieved substantial results against most of the GSPs, while progress in some prioritized areas remained challenging. The aggregated 2016 results for each GSP indicator are set out in annex 1 under "engagement".

7. UNHCR continued to promote accession to the international instruments on refugees, internally displaced persons (IDPs) and stateless persons in order to advance a favourable protection environment. It also advised and supported governments in aligning national legislation with the provisions contained in the international instruments. In 2016, three States acceded to both the 1954 Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons and the 1961 Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness,<sup>3</sup> with 16 countries working to bring nationality legislation aimed at preventing statelessness in line with international standards.

8. In the area of fair protection processes and documentation, UNHCR maintained high levels of individual registration across its operations. Despite difficult operational environments, UNHCR worked with national authorities to improve the rates of birth registration and issuance of birth certificates for children of concern. UNHCR also engaged with national authorities to find ways to facilitate access to civil registration and simplify procedures for refugees who lack documents that cannot be replaced while in exile. Identity management and registration procedures were strengthened through innovative technology, robust processes and quality data collection. UNHCR employed the improved case management system, proGres v4, and the new biometric identity management system (BIMS) in a number of operations.

9. UNHCR continued to work with governments and partners to strengthen national protection systems to support refugee children and youth, alongside host community children. To enable better access for survivors of sexual and gender-based violence (SGBV) to medical, psychosocial and legal services, UNHCR operations used targeted cash assistance and relied on improved SGBV data management and analysis.

10. In the area of basic needs and services, UNHCR and its health partners maintained the under-5 mortality rate within acceptable standards in 99 per cent of sites monitored, including in challenging operational environments and emergency situations, and despite the high number of new arrivals in poor health. UNHCR and partners met the standards for global acute malnutrition (GAM) in the majority of sites monitored. However, high levels of malnutrition remained an area of serious concern in several operations. The significant gap in funding for food assistance programmes is a contributing factor, with over 2 million refugees across nine operations experiencing reductions in food assistance. UNHCR and its partners involved in water, sanitation and hygiene (WASH) programmes succeeded in meeting standards for supply and water quality in almost all operations, except for a few emergency situations where the rate of new arrivals exceeded their ability to scale up water supply to keep pace with the growing needs. In 2016, the dwelling conditions for refugees, IDPs and returnees improved in a significant number of situations. However, progress towards achieving fully satisfactory shelter standards remained limited due to a lack of funds and operations were frequently forced to use emergency-type arrangements over more durable shelter solutions.

11. In support of community empowerment and self-reliance, UNHCR continued to work with national authorities and partners to seek opportunities for refugee children to be enrolled in national education systems. Over 250,000 refugee children who were outside the formal education system were able to access primary education as a result of these efforts. However, up to half of primary school-aged refugee children remained out of school due to inflexible enrolment policies, a lack of documentation and certification barriers. While progress was made in promoting the right of refugees to work, legal, policy and administrative barriers continued to present challenges to accessing safe and sustainable employment. UNHCR and its partners supported the inclusion of persons of concern into existing development and poverty alleviation programmes, financial markets and the labour force. Through a market analysis conducted with the International Labour Organization (ILO), UNHCR identified opportunities for refugees to access employment in several countries, supporting both refugee livelihoods and the economic development of the communities. UNHCR sustained efforts to promote the participation of displaced women in leadership structures, with operations achieving positive results when addressing social barriers through community awareness programmes. UNHCR operations also undertook community support projects to meet the shared needs of persons of concern and host communities, enhancing peaceful coexistence.

12. With respect to durable solutions, UNHCR supported the voluntary repatriation and reintegration of over a half a million refugees. In situations where opportunities for local integration were available, UNHCR worked with national authorities and the private sector to facilitate access to labour markets. Working in close collaboration with a number of resettlement countries, UNHCR submitted over 160,000 refugees for resettlement and assisted some 125,000 refugees to depart to a resettlement country, representing an increase of more than 50 per cent from 2015. In spite of these achievements, an estimated 1 million refugees remain in need of resettlement due to their protection situation and lack of access to any other durable solution.

B. Support and management GSPs

13. UNHCR Headquarters divisions and bureaux implemented a range of activities to further strengthen the support provided to operations in the field, as well as to ensure effective oversight, in line with the support and management GSPs set for the 2016-2017 biennium. Annex II provides a summary overview of the progress achieved against these GSPs.

14. Throughout 2016, UNHCR strengthened protection activities by providing legal advice, policy guidance and operational support on a range of issues to both UNHCR operations and States, including with respect to legal obligations and the individual rights of people of concern. UNHCR joined the World Bank's Identification for Development (ID4D) initiative to promote improvements to civil registration and vital statistics programmes.

15. When responding to IDP situations, in the context of inter-agency coordination, UNHCR leads or co-leads the following clusters at the global level: protection, shelter, and camp coordination and camp management (CCCCM). By working with partners and a wide range of stakeholders, UNHCR supported the inter-agency cluster system in developing new guidelines and tools, building and maintaining emergency response and technical support capacity, as well as in deploying coordination and technical specialists to operations.

16. Seven global stockpiles strategically located in Accra, Amman, Copenhagen, Duala, Dubai, Isaka and Nairobi enabled UNHCR to provide rapid support to emergency operations, with the shipment of relief items by air, land and sea transport. In 2016, 76 per cent of the deliveries from these global stockpiles were organized within 48 hours. A total of 21 emergency airlifts of relief items reached the Central African Republic, Ecuador, Ethiopia, Haiti, Iraq, Jordan, the Syrian Arab Republic and Uganda. Deployments of well-trained UNHCR and partner staff played a critical role in preparedness and response, with more than 370 deployments to 37 emergency operations around the world.

17. In response to multiple emergencies and protracted situations, UNHCR mobilized more than $3.9 billion to protect and assist people of concern, an increase of over $500 million from 2015. The #WithRefugees multimedia campaign attracted more than 100 partners in 2016 and achieved increasing levels of engagement, field support and media coverage, building empathy and promoting understanding for the plight of displaced persons.

18. Improvements in a range of tools to strengthen results-based management (RBM) and the use of training programmes contributed to more effective programme management. An institutional undertaking to comprehensively revise the RBM system was initiated, and a cross-divisional working group to initiate the process was established.

IV. GSPs for the 2018-2019 biennium

19. The High Commissioner issued a set of strategic directions<sup>4</sup> for 2017 to 2021 in order to guide the work of the Office. It elaborates five core directions on which UNHCR will focus: ensuring protection; responding in emergencies; promoting inclusion and self-reliance, including through the engagement of development actors; empowering the people UNHCR serves; and pursuing solutions. It also sets out a number of institutional changes that UNHCR will undertake in order to pursue these directions, and to optimize its responsiveness, effectiveness and institutional accountability.

20. For the 2018-2019 planning period, it was decided to maintain the current set of operational GSPs, as they reflect the core areas in the strategic directions and given the importance of ensuring continuity over time in reporting. The comprehensive review of UNHCR's results-based management system will include a broader revision of UNHCR's planning and reporting structures and improved software platforms. This revision will assist in shaping the future approach to reporting against UNHCR's strategic priorities. A number of changes have been introduced to the support and management GSPs in order to better reflect the way in which Headquarters, including the regional bureaux, is taking forward the vision set out in the strategic directions and in order to align them with UNHCR's commitments under the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, the World Humanitarian Summit and the "grand bargain". The GSPs for the 2018-2019 biennium are attached as annex III. The process of establishing UNHCR's global engagements for the operational GSPs is underway, and this will be presented in the 2018-2019 Global Appeal.

6. UNHCR effectively prepares for and responds to emergencies	Core relief items are stocked to provide emergency assistance for up to 600,000 persons, and relief items are dispatched within 48 hours	UNHCR consolidated technical planning capacities in operations by releasing a shelter design catalogue, case studies of implemented settlement designs, a site assessment form, a shelter and settlement e-learning course and a community of practice.
		UNHCR continued to make progress in developing results-driven and market-oriented livelihoods programmes. It also built its knowledge base and capacity to use CBIs as an efficient tool for protection and solutions, and conducted reviews of the potential use of CBIs in meeting health and WASH intervention objectives.
		Through its global supply chain, UNHCR responded to the needs of 600,000 persons in simultaneous emergencies around the globe, with additional relief items for 150,000 persons remaining in the purchasing pipeline to replenish stocks. Seven global stockpiles strategically located in Accra, Amman, Copenhagen, Duala, Dubai, Isaka and Nairobi enabled UNHCR to support emergencies with relief items by air, land and sea transport. 7. UNHCR has a diverse and gender-balanced workforce, which performs effectively

Overall gender balance is achieved

Republic and Yemen would not be possible without effective risk management measures, including adequate perimeter protection against explosives, armoured vehicles and robust procedures stringently followed by personnel who are appropriately trained. In 2016, 269 security incidents were managed by UNHCR's security workforce. Headquarters supported field and emergency operations through 37 missions, totalling 513 days.

At the end of 2016, UNHCR's 10,827 staff members came from 154 countries and served in more than 120 countries. Thirty-nine per cent were women. The affiliate workforce came from 170 countries and consisted of over 4,000 people, of whom 55 per cent were women. A senior management group was established to lead an inclusion, gender and diversity initiative; special measures were put in place to accelerate achievement in gender parity; and, learning on inclusion, diversity and unconscious bias were incorporated in management and leadership programmes.

Staff members meet their learning needs

In 2016, UNHCR staff members and members of affiliate workforce (UN Volunteers and others) completed over 16,200 learning activities. New e-learning programmes and other web-based learning activities reflected UNHCR priority areas, including CBIs, supply management and security awareness. UNHCR also developed specific cluster and sector support training.

Assignments are made in an efficient and timely manner

In 2016, UNHCR advertised 1,444 vacancies, a 23 per cent increase from 2015, of which 609 were advertised externally. Some 256 were filled by external candidates, of whom 43 per cent were women. Fast track assignment procedures allowed expedient filling of 108 new positions to respond to emergency situations in Nigeria, Somalia and South Sudan. UNHCR continued to harness new talent through its recruitment programmes, with a focus on gender balance and diversity. Through these talent recruitment programmes, UNHCR filled staffing needs in areas where gaps existed.

2016-2017 Support and management GSPs	Engagement	Mid-biennium progress
	Compliance is achieved in respect of performance reporting	By the end of 2016, 93 per cent of UNHCR staff had completed personal performance reports. The development and testing of new features in UNHCR's resource management system was completed, and they were launched in May 2016. This made the completion of the performance reports lighter and more efficient.
	Staff are committed and satisfied with their work	The UNHCR staff well-being and mental health survey measured the level of risk for mental health and behavioural outcomes among UNHCR's workforce. The response indicated that 35 per cent of respondents were "very satisfied" and 43.8 per cent were "fairly satisfied" with their work. The Staff Welfare Section piloted "duty of care" projects in Jordan and Indonesia.
8. UNHCR mobilizes public, political, financial and operational support through effective strategic partnerships, inter-agency coordination, multimedia communication, targeted campaigns and fundraising strategies	Resource mobilization strategies are enhanced to increase funding towards UNHCR's budget from public and private sources	The level of donor support received by UNHCR reached over $3.902 billion, with income from the private sector rising to $352 million (24% more than the previous year).
	Partnerships with member States of the Executive Committee, UN agencies, NGOs and the humanitarian system are enhanced	In 2016, UNHCR continued to engage with strategic partners and Member States through annual meetings, focusing on strategic areas.
