Budgets and Expenditure in Subregion East and Horn of Africa

People of Concern - 2018 [projected]

Response in 2018

In 2018, East and Horn of Africa remained one of the most unstable and complex sub-regions in the continent with instability, protracted political strife arising from local and national grievances and inter-communal conflicts coupled with human rights violations in some parts.

The sub-region is host to South Sudan and Somalia situations - the two of the largest refugee crises in the world. In addition to displacement resulting from these two situations, the sub-region is hosting large numbers of refugees and asylum-seekers from the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) and Sudan. At year-end, the number of refugees and asylum-seekers in the sub-region exceeded 4.02 million, with the largest caseloads in Uganda (1.2 million), Sudan (1.1 million), and Ethiopia (905,000).

The number of IDPs in the sub-region exceeded 9 million by the end of the year, including more than 2.6 million IDPs in both Ethiopia and Somalia, and close to 1.9 million in both South Sudan and Sudan. While 80% of IDPs were displaced due to conflict, drought further exacerbated this displacement. In Ethiopia, for example, it is estimated that approximately 20% of IDPs were displaced for climate-related reasons, and in Somalia, 1.4 million of the approximately 2.6 million IDPs were displaced by the 2016-2017 drought. The majority of IDPs remain in need of emergency humanitarian assistance, and some 1.3 million IDPs are in particular need of improved shelter and NFI support. In addition to prioritizing the provision of core relief items, protection and return monitoring, UNHCR also engaged in area-based reintegration programming in partnership with the Government of Somalia and other stakeholders.

Progress was made in the sub-region in terms of legislative reform, with the most notable achievement taking place in December 2018, when South Sudan acceded to the 1951 Convention relating to the Status of Refugees. UNHCR also welcomed progress on Ethiopia's historic refugee proclamation, which will enable refugees to acquire work permits; access primary education; obtain drivers' licenses; register life events such as births and marriages; and open bank accounts.

Efforts to achieve durable solutions on behalf of refugees were sustained throughout the sub-region, with some 5,298 refugees resettled from Kenya and Uganda, while another 1,759 were assisted for voluntary repatriation to Sudan. In Eritrea, despite stepping up UNHCR's presence and coverage, the relationship with the Government remained challenging, thereby frustrating all efforts to implement the two-prong strategy notably aiming at assisting the voluntary repatriation and resettlement to third countries of more than 1,000 Somali refugees, while actively engaging with relevant stakeholders with a view of contributing to solving the root causes of forced displacement, inter alia.

The Global Compact for Refugees emphasizes the importance of economic inclusion in achieving protection and solutions for refugees and especially, those living in protracted situations. To achieve the economic inclusion requires active engagement with a broad range of actors, leveraging their respective comparative advantages and specializations, therefore, UNHCR worked with a large range of development actors in Ethiopia. The operation engaged these diverse actors to further advocacy efforts with the Government of Ethiopia, contributing to the passing of the new proclamation.

The security situation in most areas of South Sudan improved as a result of the Revitalized Agreement on the Resolution of the Conflict in the Republic of South Sudan (R-ARCSS), signed on 12 September 2018. By the end of 2018 there was a decline in military engagements which allowed humanitarian operations to be implemented with minimal interruptions across the country, except for a few areas in Central and Western Equatoria and led to the increase in the number of spontaneous refugee returns to about 136,000.

By the end of 2018, violence and instability in Somalia resulted in more internal displacement. The number of IDPs increased to more than 2.6 million IDPs, with over 800,000 Somalis seeking refuge in neighbouring countries and Yemen. The protection and operational environment in Somalia remained complex and unpredictable due to continuing insecurity in many parts, as well as related food insecurity.

At year-end, Kenya was hosting some 471,700 refugees and asylum-seekers. The formal declaration of Kenya as a CRRF country in late 2017 and the roll out of the MYMP in 2018 enhanced the delivery of protection and solution strategy in Kenya. This was supported by the World Bank led eligibility process for Kenya to access the IDA18 refugee sub-window in February 2018.

Throughout 2018, Uganda continued to receive refugees mainly from the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC), South Sudan and Burundi, maintaining an open-door policy for forcibly displaced people, granting prima facie refugee status to asylum-seeking persons from the DRC and South Sudan. A joint verification exercise took place, registering the entire refugee population using the biometric identity management system (BIMS) and proGres v4, UNHCR's registration system. At year end, the refugee and asylum-seeking population in Uganda stood at close to 1.2 million.

Due to limited resources, continuous deterioration of security and increasing logistical challenges, substantial gaps in UNHCR's ability to meeting the protection and assistance needs of people of concern in the sub-region remain.
