- (d) ensure that the child has suitable legal representation to deal with his residence status, asylum claim, or any other legal or administrative procedure; and
- (e) ensure that all decisions in relation to the child are taken in his best interests.

(4) The Director shall refer the unaccompanied child to the competent authorities for them to make such investigations and assessments as they may consider necessary to determine whether the claimant is, or is not, in effect an unaccompanied child. The Director shall, pending such investigations and assessments, file an application to the Court of Magistrates to make a temporary assessment order.

(5) Upon receiving the findings of the investigations and assessments by the competent authorities, determining that the claimant is in effect an unaccompanied child, the tutor shall file an application to the Court of Magistrates to make a care order.

(6) Upon receipt of any such application, the Court of Magistrates shall appoint a Children's Advocate for the unaccompanied child. The court shall then appoint the application for hearing within five working days and shall forthwith notify the Agency, or such other competent authorities or entities responsible for the well-being of international protection seekers, as the case may be, of the date of such hearing.

(7) The Court of Magistrates shall during the first hearing, hear the application, the evidence in support of the application, the unaccompanied child, the tutor and the Children's Advocate. Where the Court of Magistrates is satisfied that the claimant is in effect an unaccompanied child, the Court shall adjourn the case to another date, being a date not later than one month from the date of the adjournment, and the Agency, or such other competent authority or entity, shall within that period prepare a care plan and the provisions of article 12 shall apply mutatis mutandis.

(8) Where the Court of Magistrates is satisfied that the care plan is appropriate in the circumstances of the case it shall make a care order, subject to such other conditions as the court may deem adequate to impose, including the assignment of parental responsibilities to the Agency, or to such other competent authority or entity as the court deems appropriate. The court shall then refer the case to the Review Board for review in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

21. (1) Without prejudice to the power of the court to make a child protection order, the court may also, on the application of the relatives of that child, or of any one of the professionals assisting the child, or of the alternative carers, or of any such other person close to such child, make a special guardianship order in relation to the child:

Provided that, where among the persons applying for special guardianship there are relatives of the child, and the court determines that such relatives are competent persons, the court shall give preference to those relatives, subject always to the best interests of the child.

- (2) The following persons cannot be appointed special guardians:
 - (a) persons who have not attained majority;
 - (b) undischarged bankrupts;
 - (c) persons who have been sentenced to the punishment of imprisonment for a term exceeding one year, or to any punishment for an offence affecting the good order of families, or for fraud;
 - (d) persons who are of a notoriously bad character, or manifestly untrustworthy or negligent;
 - (e) any other person as the court may consider not appropriate in the circumstances of the case.

- (3) Before making an order in accordance with sub-article (1), the court shall notify the Agency and the said Agency shall prepare a report to the court on the suitability or otherwise of the applicants to be special guardians.

- (4) The court may allocate to the special guardian such parental rights and responsibilities, which it considers necessary for the care of the child. The court shall also determine whether such rights and responsibilities shall be exercised solely by the special guardian to the exclusion of the parents.

- (5) In case of disagreement between the parents and the special guardian on matters of particular importance, the parents or the special guardian may apply to the court indicating those directions which he or she considers appropriate in the circumstances. The court, after hearing the parents, the special guardian and the child, if the latter is considered as having sufficient understanding, shall decide upon the issue. In the case of an imminent danger or serious prejudice to the child the special guardian may take such measures which are urgent and cannot be postponed.

- (6) It shall be lawful for the court to appoint more than one special guardian for the child. In such case, the court may, either of its own motion or on the demand of one or more of the special guardians, specify the parental responsibilities of each special guardian in relation to the child. The court may also determine whether a special guardian shall have the right to exercise the parental responsibilities assigned to him to the exclusion of all others having parental responsibilities for the child.

- (7) Any special guardian so appointed in accordance with this article shall be entitled to such support services as the Minister shall from time to time determine by means of regulations.

- (8) The court may suspend or remove a special guardian from his office on any of the grounds mentioned in sub-article (2), or for failure to render an account in due time, or for unfaithfulness in the account rendered, or for any other just cause.

(9) In all cases the court shall chiefly consider the interest of the minor.

22. (1) A child protection order shall remain in force until the child attains the age of eighteen years, or the Court of Magistrates revokes it.

Validity of child protection orders.

(2) The Court of Magistrates may revoke a protection order upon receipt of a recommendation to that effect, and the reasons thereof, by the Review Board made in terms of article 28(5). The Court of Magistrates shall before revoking such order take into account:

- (a) the recommendation to that effect, and the reasons thereof, of the Review Board;
- (b) the views of the child, if considered to have sufficient understanding;
- (c) the views of the Children's Advocate;
- (d) the views of the parents of the child;
- (e) the views of the key social worker;
- (f) the views of the alternative carer;
- (g) where applicable, the views of the guardian; and
- (h) the views of any such other person as it may deem appropriate.

(3) Where the Court of Magistrates determines that sufficient grounds exist for the revocation of a protection order it shall refer the matter to the Review Board to prepare a reintegration plan and the provisions of article 30 shall apply.

(4) Where the Court of Magistrates determines that no sufficient grounds exist for the revocation of a protection order, it shall make a decree ordering the continuance of reviews before the Review Board and shall provide the reasons thereof.

(5) For the purposes of the preceding sub-articles (3) and (4), the court shall take into account:

- (a) the age of the child;
- (b) the wishes of the child and the weight to be given to those wishes in accordance with the child's age and maturity;
- (c) the length of time the child has been in the care of the current alternative carers;
- (d) the strength of the child's attachments to his parents and the current alternative carers;
- (e) the capacity of the parents of the child to provide an adequate standard of care for the child; and
- (f) the risk of psychological harm that the child may suffer if present care arrangements are varied or revoked.

Alternative permanency plan.

23. (1) The court may decree that an alternative permanency plan is, in the circumstances of the case, in the best interests of the child. The court may make such a decree either on the application of the Director, made together with an application for a child protection order, or otherwise on the recommendation of the Review Board in accordance with article 28(6).

(2) Before making the said decree, the court shall ascertain the views and wishes of the child, if considered as having sufficient understanding, and of any such other person or entity, which it may deem relevant for the purpose of ascertaining such views and wishes.

(3) Where the Court makes a decree in accordance with this article, it may also allocate parental responsibilities to the alternative carers, particularly in relation to matters of education, health and overseas travel. The court may also impose any such other condition as it may deem appropriate to impose in the circumstances of the case.

(4) Any review of the alternative permanency plan shall take place at least once every year by means of a report drawn up by the key social worker, which report shall be presented to the Review Board. The said board shall, whenever it deems it proper so to do, summon any person or entity to appear before it and require them to produce any document, which it may require:

Provided that the Review Board shall have the power to hear the child at any time during which the alternative permanency plan is in effect to ascertain the well-being of such child.

A decree to free
the child in care for adoption.

24. (1) In accordance with the provisions of this article, the court may on the application of the Agency decree that a child under a care order be freed for adoption.

(2) The application mentioned in the preceding sub-article shall, besides the relevant identification particulars of the child and, where applicable, of the parents of such child, also contain detailed reasons for the request. Where the prospective adoptive parents have been identified, the application shall also contain their identification particulars:

Provided that where among the persons identified as prospective adoptive parents there are the alternative carers, the Agency may in the application give preference to such carers, subject always to the best interests of the child.

(3) The application shall be served on the parents of the child who shall have twenty days within which to file a reply. The parties shall then be notified with the date for the hearing of the application.

(4) Before making a decree freeing the child in care for adoption, the court shall:

- (a) hear and ascertain the views and wishes of the child, if considered as having sufficient understanding;
- (b) hear any person who has been entrusted with the care and custody of the child to be freed for adoption;
- (c) hear the parents of such child;
- (d) hear the Children's Advocate, the key social worker and any such other person, whom it deems relevant;

- (e) take into account whether the freeing for adoption would be in the best interests of the child;
- (f) take into account whether there are any reasonable prospects for the parents to become able to care for the child; and
- (g) take into account the consent of the parents to the freeing for the adoption:

Provided that the absence of consent of the parents shall not, of itself, be a bar to the freeing of the child for adoption.

(5) Where the court makes a decree to free the child for adoption, it shall state the reasons for its decision. In all cases where the Agency has in the application also identified the prospective adoptive parents, the court shall refer the decree, together with the application, to the competent court, which by law has power to make adoption decrees and the provisions of the Civil Code in relation to adoptions shall apply.

Cap. 16.

Provided that the Children's Advocate shall provide to the child the explanations and all the relevant information as mentioned in paragraphs (b) and (c) only where the child is considered as having sufficient understanding.

(2) The Children's Advocate shall receive such relevant training as from time to time may be prescribed by regulations made by the Minister responsible for Justice to effectively represent and ascertain the views and wishes of the child.

TITLE III

OF THE CHILD CARE REVIEW BOARD

26. (1) There shall be set up in accordance with the provisions of this Act, a board known as the Child Care Review Board, which shall be composed of five members as follows:

Child Care Review Board.

- (a) four members shall be appointed by the Minister of whom:
 - (i) one person shall be a Chairperson holding a warrant of advocate and having at least five years

- of professional experience in family or child law;
 - (ii) one person shall be qualified in any one of the mental health professions, preference being given to persons having at least five years of professional experience;
 - (iii) one person shall be qualified in the medical profession, preference being given to persons having at least five years of professional experience; and
 - (iv) one person shall be qualified in family therapy, preference being given to persons having at least five years of professional experience; and
- (b) one person shall be a registered social worker and having at least five years of professional experience in social work appointed by the Commissioner for Children.

(2) The members of the Board shall hold office for a period of four years from the date of appointment and a member shall, on ceasing to be such a member, be eligible for re-appointment.

(3) A member of the Board may be removed from the office by the Minister if such member is unfit to continue in office or has become incapable of, or is not, properly performing his duties or in the event of any of the circumstances which disqualify such person from remaining a member of the Board.

(4) The appointment of any person as a member of the Board and the termination of office or resignation of any such person, as well as any other additional functions assigned to the Board by the Minister, shall be notified in the Gazette, and it shall have effect forthwith:

Provided that failure to publish the appointment or termination, as the case may be, shall not prejudice the validity of such appointment or termination.

Functions and powers of the Board.

27. (1) The Board shall have such functions and powers as are assigned to it under this Act or under any other law, or as may be assigned to it from time to time by the Minister.

(2) Without prejudice to its other powers and functions arising under this Act or under any other law, the powers and functions of the Board shall include:

- (a) to hold periodical reviews of the care plan;
- (b) to examine reports drawn up by the key social worker;
- (c) to make recommendations to the Court of Magistrates on the child's and family's situation, including the family's actual and potential capacity to care for the child, to decide whether reintegration of the child in the family is possible and in the best interests of the child;
- (d) to make recommendations to the Court of Magistrates on the appropriateness of the child protection order from time to time;
- (e) to vary the care plan where and when necessary;
- (f) in case of disagreement on matters of particular importance, to take decisions which it deems in the best interest of the child; and

(g) exercise general supervision over the child.

(3) Subject to the provisions of this Act and to such regulations as may be made under this Act, the Board shall regulate its own procedure.

(4) For the purposes of carrying out its functions under this Act, the Board shall have the power to access all relevant documentation by whomsoever held and to request the help of any person, by specifying the action which is required from any such person, whenever the Board deems that such action can help it in the exercise of any of its functions.

28. (1) The first review of the care plan shall take place before the Board not later than four months from the date of the child protection order, and any subsequent reviews shall take place at least once every six months:

Reviews.

Provided that the key social worker or guardian of the child, as the case may be, may apply to the Board to review the case before the expiration of the six month period on the grounds that the child is suffering, or is likely to suffer, significant harm in the placement or as a result of the care plan. In either case, the Board shall appoint the application for hearing not later than five days from the filing of the application and shall, after hearing all parties concerned, give its decision on the application with urgency.

(2) The key social worker shall, during the first review present to the Review Board a concurrent plan for the child. The said plan shall simultaneously define the requirements which the parents need to satisfy, for the purposes of reintegration or reunification of the child with such parents, and establish an alternative permanency plan:

Provided that the key social worker shall make all reasonable efforts to reintegrate or reunify the child with the parents, subject always to the best interests of the child.

(3) The Review Board shall, on the day appointed for every other subsequent review, hear the parents of the child, the key social worker, the alternative carer and, where applicable, the guardian, to determine whether progress is, or is not, being made in accordance with the care plan:

Provided that the Review Board may, whenever it deems it in the best interests of the child so to do, or whenever the child expresses his wish to be heard by the Review Board, hear such child and, for this purpose, may also appoint an alternative date, time or place, which is different from such date, time or place that is appointed for the review.

(4) The Board may also consult with such professionals, or other persons, as it may deem appropriate. For such purpose, the Board may invite any such professional or other person to attend meetings of the Board.

(5) Where the Review Board determines that sufficient progress has been made, justifying the revocation of a child protection order, it shall make a recommendation to the court to that effect for a final judgment.

(6) Where the Review Board determines that no sufficient progress has been made, justifying the revocation of a child protection, and two years have lapsed from the date on which a concurrent plan was presented to the Review Board by the key social worker, the said Board shall proceed to determine whether there are or not any reasonable prospects for reintegration or reunification of the child with his parents. In the first case the Review Board shall continue with the periodical reviews, subject to any variations to the care plan, which it deems necessary in the circumstances of the case and, in the second case, the Review Board may recommend to the court that the alternative permanency plan should have effect:

Provided that the Review Board may recommend to the court that the alternative permanency plan should have effect at any time during which the child is under a care order in all cases where this is considered in the best interests of the child so to do:

Provided further that where it is in the best interests of the child that the alternative permanency plan has effect immediately upon the making of the orders mentioned in the preceding proviso, the recommendation to that effect shall be made by the Director.

(7) Before delivering its final decision, the court shall hear the views of any person, which it deems relevant, and in particular the views of the child, if considered to have sufficient understanding.

(8) The key social worker, the parents of the child, or where applicable, the guardian, may, within seven working days from the Review Board's decision that no sufficient progress has been made, which justifies a recommendation to the court for the revocation of an order, apply to the Court of Magistrates for it to review the decision of the said Board:

Provided that, without prejudice to any other sanction arising from the provisions of this or any other law, where the application for such revision is evidently frivolous or vexatious, it shall be lawful for the Court of Magistrates to condemn the applicant besides to the payment of costs, to the penalty of not less than two hundred and fifty euro (€250) but not exceeding two thousand and five hundred euro (€2,500):

Provided further that where the Court of Magistrates confirms that no sufficient grounds exist for the revocation of a child protection order, any subsequent application for a review of the decision of the Review Board shall only be allowed after the lapse of twelve months from the day on which such determination is made:

Provided further that no application or further applications shall be entertained by the Court of Magistrates following a decree that an alternative permanency plan is in the best interests of the child.

Variations of the care plan.

29. (1) Without prejudice to the provisions of article 23, where the key social worker, the parents of the child, the alternative carer or, where applicable, the guardian request a variation of the care plan, the Board shall determine the necessity or otherwise in doing so. The Board shall, after hearing all the persons concerned, determine the manner in which the care plan is to be varied and shall order the key social worker to make such established variations to the care plan.

(2) Where the Board determines that a variation to the care plan is necessary, as mentioned in the preceding sub-article, it shall submit the reasons for its decision in a report.

30. (1) For the purposes of article 22(3), the Review Board shall, by agreement with the key social worker, the parents of the child, the alternative carer, and where applicable, the guardian, set out in writing the aims of the reintegration plan and the method by which the child is to be reintegrated with his family.

Reintegration.

(2) Where the Review Board determines that the aims of the reintegration plan have been fulfilled, it shall make a note to that effect in the records of the case, and transmit the records to the Court of Magistrates.

(3) If, upon receipt of the records, the Court of Magistrates is satisfied that the aims have been fulfilled, it shall revoke the child protection order, subject to such conditions as it deems appropriate to impose, but may before proceeding to make such revocation hear any person or persons as it may consider appropriate in the circumstances of the case:

Provided that the court shall in all cases hear the child if considered to have sufficient understanding.

(2) For the purposes of drawing up the Home Study Report, the social worker appointed by the Agency shall carry out the necessary home visits. The visits shall be unannounced and the prospective foster carer shall not refuse entry, shall co-operate with the social worker and shall provide correct information to the best of his knowledge.

This report shall be drawn up before the two year period has elapsed if the foster carer needs to be assessed before the expiration of this period.

(3) For the purposes of drawing up the Review Report, the social worker shall carry out the necessary home visits.
