ANGUILLA

MINIMAL ADVANCEMENT

In 2016, Anguilla made a minimal advancement in efforts to eliminate the worst forms of child labor. Research found no evidence that child labor, including its worst forms, exists in Anguilla. The Government funded an online system for the public to report commercial sexual exploitation, which transfers cases reported online involving children to the police. However, the law does not prohibit the involvement of children in illicit activities or provide a comprehensive list of hazardous occupations prohibited for children.

BRITISH VIRGIN ISLANDS

MINIMAL ADVANCEMENT

In 2016, the British Virgin Islands made a minimal advancement in efforts to eliminate the worst forms of child labor. Research found no evidence that child labor, including its worst forms, exists in the British Virgin Islands. The Government funded an online system for the public to report commercial sexual exploitation, which transfers cases reported online involving children to the police. However, the law does not prohibit the involvement of children in illicit activities, and the minimum age for recruitment by non-state armed groups does not meet international standards.

FALKLAND ISLANDS (ISLAS MALVINAS)

MINIMAL ADVANCEMENT

In 2016, the Falkland Islands made a minimal advancement in efforts to eliminate the worst forms of child labor. Research found no evidence that child labor, including its worst forms, exists in the Falkland Islands. The Government continued to fund an online system for the public to report commercial sexual exploitation, which transfers cases reported online involving children to the police. However, the minimum age for work and hazardous work do not meet international standards. The law also does not prohibit the involvement of children in illicit activities.

MONTSERRAT

MINIMAL ADVANCEMENT

In 2016, Montserrat made a minimal advancement in efforts to eliminate the worst forms of child labor. Research found no evidence that child labor, including its worst forms, exists in Montserrat. The Government funded an online system for the public to report commercial sexual exploitation, which transfers cases reported online involving children to the police. However, the law does not prohibit the involvement of children in illicit activities, and the minimum age for recruitment by non-state armed groups does not meet international standards.

SAINT HELENA, ASCENSIÓN, AND TRISTÁN DA CUNHA (FORMERLY SAINT HELENA)

MINIMAL ADVANCEMENT

In 2016, Saint Helena, Ascensión, and Tristán da Cunha (formerly Saint Helena) made a minimal advancement in efforts to eliminate the worst forms of child labor. Research found no evidence that child labor, including its worst forms, exists in Saint Helena, Ascensión, and Tristán da Cunha. The Government funded an online system for the public to report commercial sexual exploitation, which transfers cases reported online involving children to the police. However, there isn't a minimum age for work and the law does not prohibit the involvement of children in illicit activities. Gaps also remain in forced labor legislation and in the prohibition of trafficking of children for labor exploitation.

I. PREVALENCE AND SECTORAL DISTRIBUTION OF CHILD LABOR

ANGUILLA, BRITISH VIRGIN ISLANDS, FALKLAND ISLANDS, MONTserrat, AND SAINT HELENA, ASCENSIÓN AND TRISTÁN DA CUNHA

Research found no evidence that child labor, including its worst forms, exists in Anguilla (A), the British Virgin Islands (BVI), the Falkland Islands (FI), Montserrat (M), and Saint Helena, Ascension, and Tristan da Cunha (SH).(1-3)

Table 1 provides one key indicator on children's education in the BVI and M, the only Overseas Territories (OTs) of the United Kingdom for which information is available. Data on other key indicators for the UK OTs are not available from the sources used in this report.

II. LEGAL FRAMEWORK FOR THE WORST FORMS OF CHILD LABOR

British Overseas Territories recognize the jurisdiction and sovereignty of the United Kingdom, but they are constitutionally not part of the UK. They are self-governing, except in the areas of foreign affairs and defense.(6) Domestic UK law does not generally apply unless explicitly extended in Anguilla, the British Virgin Islands, and Montserrat. The Falkland Islands and Saint Helena, Ascension, and Tristan da Cunha generally incorporate English Law Ordinances to the extent permitted by local circumstances and subject to modification by local laws.(3) Under Article 35(4) of the ILO Constitution, when the UK ratifies a Convention, the Territory must consider if it will accept the Convention. If the Convention is accepted, it is considered applicable to that territory.(3, 6) The following conventions have been extended to the Overseas Territories of the UK (Table 2).

In 2016, Anguilla held a series of consultations for the passage of the Status of Children Bill and the Maintenance of Children Bill.(13-15) The Status of Children Bill abolishes the distinction between children born in wedlock and out of wedlock, providing them equal status.(15, 16) The Maintenance of Children Bill grants access to the child if both parents are separated, obligating them to maintain and provide upbringing to the child.(14, 16)

The minimum age for work of 12 does not meet international standards. There is a minimum age of 14 that only applies to industrial undertakings, transportation of passengers or goods by roads or rail, and work on ships.(7, 8) The minimum age for hazardous work of 14 also does not meet international standards. However, there is a prohibition of night work for children under age 16 in manufacturing of raw sugar and a prohibition of night work in other industrial undertakings for children under 18.(7) Additionally, research could not determine whether Anguillan law prohibits the use of children in illicit activities, such as drug trafficking, because the Drug Trafficking Ordinance was not publically available. The law does not criminally prohibit the recruitment of children by non-state armed groups.(9)

In the British Virgin Islands, the Labor Code specifies that hazardous work is to be defined by the Minister. The Government plans to establish a committee of officials from the Ministry of Education and Culture, the Ministry of Health and Social Development, the Ministry of Natural Resources and Labor, and the Deputy Governor's Office to develop a list of hazardous occupations prohibited for children.(2) However, the Government has not yet determined the types of hazardous work prohibited for children beyond night work and the use of dangerous machinery.(2) The law does not criminally prohibit the recruitment of children by non-state armed groups.

In the Falkland Islands, the Employment of Women, Young Persons, and Children Ordinance of 1968, (EWYPC Ordinance) as amended in 2006, and the Employment of Children Ordinance extend to the Falkland Islands.(24) The EWYPC Ordinance makes it illegal to employ children under age 15 in work that exposes them to physical, psychological, or sexual abuse.(29) The EWYPC Ordinance protects these children from night work, work underground, work underwater, work at dangerous heights, and work in confined spaces, as well as from work that requires using dangerous machinery, equipment, or tools without training and supervision.(22, 25) The minimum age of 15 for hazardous work is not in compliance with international standards.

Overseas Territories of the United Kingdom

The Drug Trafficking Ordinance does not prohibit adults from using, procuring, and offering a child in the production and trafficking of drugs in the Falkland Islands.(30) Although child trafficking has not been identified as a problem, the law does not criminalize trafficking children for labor exploitation.(22, 26, 27) Also, the law does not criminally prohibit the recruitment of children by non-state armed groups.

The Government of the Falkland Islands has implemented the Children Ordinance of 2014 with the aim of providing additional legal protection for children on the islands.(31) It is unclear whether this law addresses child labor, because this law does not appear to have been made public.

In Montserrat, the Labor Code prohibits the employment of children under age 16; however, it includes an exception allowing the employment of children older than age 14 in light work. In addition, children under age 18 may not be employed at night or in occupations designated as hazardous.(32) The Minister of Labor for Montserrat is entrusted with the responsibility of deciding what constitutes hazardous work.(32) The law does not criminally prohibit the recruitment of children by non-state armed groups. Research could not find whether the law prohibits the use of children in illicit activities.

In 2016, the Government of Saint Helena, Ascensión, and Tristán da Cunha (Government of STATC) stated that it intends to make their laws fully compliant with the UN CRC in the near future. During the reporting period, the laws were being reviewed and consolidated for a bill to be introduced in 2017.(3)

Saint Helena, Ascensión, and Tristán da Cunha do not have laws establishing a minimum age for work.(40) The minimum age of 15 for work on vessels is not in compliance with international standards because the Government of STATC has reported that work on fishing vessels is hazardous.(1, 4) The laws prohibiting forced labor in Saint Helena, Ascensión, and Tristán da Cunha are not sufficient as debt bondage and slavery are prohibited constitutionally, but not criminally.(37) While the UK Sexual Offences Act, which is applicable to this territory, prohibits trafficking for sexual exploitation, there are no laws prohibiting the trafficking of children for labor exploitation.(41) The law also does not criminally prohibit the recruitment of children by non-state armed groups.

III. ENFORCEMENT OF LAWS ON THE WORST FORMS OF CHILD LABOR

In Anguilla, the British Virgin Islands, the Falkland Islands, and Montserrat, the UK Government has established an institutional mechanism for the enforcement of labor laws, although child labor is not a problem. In Saint Helena, Ascensión, and Tristán da Cunha, where child labor is not reported to be a problem, research did not find institutional mechanisms for the enforcement of child labor (Table 4).

Table 4. Agencies Responsible for Child Labor Law Enforcement

ANGUILLA
Organization/Agency	Role
Department of Labor of the Ministry of Finance, Economic Development, Investments, and Tourism	Enforce child labor laws through the Labor Commissioner, pursuant to the Employment of Children (Restriction) Act.(42, 43)

Royal Anguilla Police Force	Investigate child protection cases.(44, 45)

Overseas Territories of the United Kingdom

BRITISH VIRGIN ISLANDS
Organization/Agency	Role
Ministry of Labor	Enforce labor laws and collect data and statistics on violations of the Labor Code.(17)

FALKLAND ISLANDS
Organization/Agency	Role
Royal Falkland Islands Police	Enforce laws protecting children against abuses, including sexual abuses.(46)

MONTserrat
Organization/Agency	Role
Department of Labor	Prohibit employment of children, pursuant to the Labor Code of 2012.(47)
Royal Montserrat Police Service	Enforce laws involving children.(48)
Department of Social Services	Employ social workers to work on child protection issues.(48)

IV. COORDINATION OF GOVERNMENT EFFORTS ON THE WORST FORMS OF CHILD LABOR

The Governments of Anguilla and the Falklands Islands have established a mechanism to coordinate efforts to address child labor, including its worst forms, although there appears to be no evidence of a problem. The British Virgin Islands, Montserrat, and Saint Helena, Ascensión, and Tristán da Cunha do not have mechanisms to coordinate efforts to address child labor, including its worst forms, but there is no evidence of a problem in these territories (Table 5).

Table 5. Key Mechanisms to Coordinate Government Efforts on Child Labor

ANGUILLA
Coordinating Body	Role & Description
Ministry of Social Development	Implement child protection efforts and ensure that Anguilla complies with the CRC.(43)

FALKLAND ISLANDS
Coordinating Body	Role & Description
Falkland Islands Safeguarding Children Board	Ensure children’s welfare, including protection from sexual abuses. Chaired by the Director of Health and Social Services, members include the Education Department, the Attorney General’s Chambers, Social Services, Royal Falkland Islands Police, healthcare professionals, members of the Legislative Assembly, and a representative from the military community.(49)

In 2016, the UK Government funded an online system for reporting commercial sexual exploitation in Anguilla, the British Virgin Islands, Montserrat, and Saint Helena, Ascensión, and Tristán da Cunha.(3) It allows people to report child abuse anonymously online. Reports are assessed and forwarded to the police.(3) While the Falkland Islands were not part of the funding for this reporting system, they continued to implement a similar system to report commercial sexual exploitation.(50)

At the 2016 Overseas Territories Joint Ministerial Council, leaders of the UK OTs discussed the development of a national response plan for child safeguarding on the islands.(3) The Government of the British Virgin Islands, the Falkland Islands, Montserrat, and Saint Helena, Ascensión, and Tristán da Cunha signed an Overseas Territory Memorandum of Understanding developed by the Falkland Islands. The Memorandum promotes more effective collaboration between the UK OTs.(3)

V. GOVERNMENT POLICIES ON THE WORST FORMS OF CHILD LABOR

As there is no evidence of a problem, there appears to be no need for policies to address child labor, including its worst forms, in Anguilla, the British Virgin Islands, the Falkland Islands, Montserrat, and Saint Helena, Ascensión, and Tristán da Cunha. However, Anguilla has established the Child Protection National Action Plan, Safeguarding and Child Protection

Overseas Territories of United Kingdom

Protocols and Procedures and an Inter-Agency Child Protection Protocol. All of these policies may contribute to the prevention of child labor.(13, 40, 42-45, 51-53)

VI. SOCIAL PROGRAMS TO ADDRESS CHILD LABOR

As there is no evidence of a problem, there appears to be no need for programs to address child labor, including its worst forms, in Anguilla, the British Virgin Islands, the Falkland Islands, Montserrat, and Saint Helena, Ascension, and Tristán da Cunha. However, Anguilla has established the Safeguarding Children in Anguilla Project, Department for Youth and Culture Programming, and Child Safeguarding in the Overseas Territories Regional Project that may contribute to the prevention of child labor.(43, 54-56) The British Virgin Islands has established the Child Safeguarding in the Overseas Territories Regional Project and other child protection programs that may contribute to the prevention of child labor.(2, 55) Montserrat has established the UNICEF Program on Children’s Rights, Policies, and Education that may contribute to the prevention of child labor.(57)

VII. SUGGESTED GOVERNMENT ACTIONS TO PREVENT THE WORST FORMS OF CHILD LABOR

Based on the reporting above, suggested actions are identified that would advance the continued prevention of child labor, including its worst forms, in Anguilla, the British Virgin Islands, the Falkland Islands, Montserrat, and Saint Helena, Ascension, and Tristán da Cunha (Table 6).

Data provided is the gross intake ratio to the last grade of primary education. This measure is a proxy measure for primary completion. This ratio is the total number of new entrants in the last grade of primary education, regardless of age, expressed as a percentage of the population at the theoretical entrance age to the last grade of primary education. A high ratio indicates a high degree of current primary education completion. The calculation includes all new entrants to last grade (regardless of age). Therefore, the ratio can exceed 100 percent, due to over-aged and under-aged children who enter primary school late/early and/or repeat grades.
