What you need to know about reporting possible misconduct by UNHCR or partner agency staff

WHAT IS MISCONDUCT?

All UNHCR staff members are bound by the United Nations Staff Rules and Regulations.

Misconduct is defined as the failure by a staff member to abide by these rules and regulations.

Misconduct can be classified into various types; examples are listed below:

- Embezzlement and procurement fraud
- Financial negligence resulting in substantial losses
- Sexual exploitation and abuse
- Harassment (including mobbing)
- Assault, threats or retaliation
- Unlawful acts (e.g. theft or fraud) on or off UN premises
- Misrepresentation or false certification relating to a claim or benefit
- Misuse of the Organisation's equipment or assets
- Abuse of authority
- Non-compliance with local laws or the staff's personal legal obligations.

IGO Investigations are administrative investigations. IGO investigators are not police officers conducting criminal investigations.

WHAT IS THE ROLE OF THE IGO?

In UNHCR, the Inspector General's Office (IGO) has the authority to investigate staff misconduct.

An investigation is a fact finding exercise. The IGO's objective is to gather facts and relevant evidence to support or refute an allegation of staff misconduct.

Four important principles guide the IGO's work during investigations:

- Presumption of innocence
- Independence
- Impartiality, and
- Confidentiality

HOW DOES THE IGO MAINTAIN CONFIDENTIALITY?

All IGO investigations are confidential. Information about a case will only be disclosed on a strict need-to-know basis.

The IGO will not reveal the identity of the person who reported misconduct, except in cases of sexual harassment, harassment and certain cases of abuse of authority, so as to allow the subject of the investigation to defend himself/herself against the allegations of misconduct.

The complainant as well as any witnesses who are contacted by the IGO must keep the matter confidential.

WHAT TO REPORT TO THE IGO?

- What happened?
Describe in detail what you know about the incident(s).
- Who committed the alleged wrongdoing?
Do you know if anyone else was involved? (Provide full names, titles and organization, if possible).
- When and Where did the incident(s) occur?
Indicate dates and times, if available.

Do not take any steps to investigate an allegation without IGO approval, as this would likely compromise the integrity of the investigation.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN THE IGO RECEIVES A COMPLAINT?

When the IGO receives a complaint, it may contact the complainant and collect information to determine if an investigation should be opened.

The complainant will be informed if an investigation is opened but he/she and other investigation participants will not be updated on the investigation and will not be informed of its outcome (with exceptions depending on the nature of the complaint).
