Chapter 7

REVIEW OF APPLICATION FOR PROTECTION AND APPLICATION FOR EXTENSION OF COMPLEMENTARY PROTECTION

Article 31. Main Stages and Conditions of Review of Application for Protection and Main Stages of Review of Application for Extension of Complementary Protection

The review of application for protection shall include:

personality identification of the alien applying for protection who does not possess a travel document or presented a counterfeit or forged travel document;

registration of aliens applying for protection;

distribution of aliens applying for protection throughout the territory of the Republic of Belarus;

interviewing, registration of applications for protection and issuance of certificates of application registration; mandatory state fingerprint registration of alien applying for protection and mandatory medical examination;

review of application for protection by citizenship and migration units and development of conclusion;

review of application for protection by the Department and taking a decision;

Establishment of grounds for granting complementary protection shall not be conducted if at review of the application for protection it is decided to grant refugee status.

A new application for protection shall not be accepted for review until the completion of review of previously submitted application for protection, the alien's appeal against the decision made (if the right to appeal is used) and the alien's departure from the Republic of Belarus, if not determined otherwise in Part Four of this Article.

A new application for protection shall be accepted for review if grounds for granting the alien refugee status or complementary protection emerge after the decision on denial in granting refugee status and/or complementary protection on previously submitted application was made.

Review of application for extension of complementary protection shall include:

holding interview;

review of application for extension of complementary protection by a citizenship and migration unit and preparation of conclusion;

review of application for extension of complementary protection by the Department and making decision.

Article 32. Personality Identification of Alien Applying for Protection without a Travel Document or Presenting a Counterfeit or Forged Travel Document

In regard to alien applying for protection who do not possess a travel document or who presented a counterfeit or forged travel document, the citizenship and migration units shall, within one month upon the day of the alien's application to the relevant government agencies of the Republic of Belarus for protection, carry out the personality identification procedure, unless this Law provides otherwise.

Personality identification of an unaccompanied underage alien applying for protection shall be carried out in mandatory presence of a representative of the guardianship and custody agency. The unaccompanied underage alien may be put into a reception-distribution center for underage children for the duration of the personality identification procedure.

In case there are doubts about the age of the underage alien applying for protection who does not possess a document proving his age, or who presents a counterfeit or forged document proving his age, the citizenship and migration unit shall, with his consent (for an unaccompanied underage alien) or with consent of his legal representative, refer the subject alien to a forensic medical examination in order to determine the age of the underage alien. The duration of the personality identification procedure of an underage alien forwarded to forensic medical examination, shall be extended to a period of time necessary to undergo such an examination.

If the underage unaccompanied alien or the legal representative of the underage alien refuse from undergoing forensic medical examination aimed at determination of the age of the underage alien, his application for protection shall be considered as an adult alien's application for protection.

Article 33. Distribution of Aliens Applying for Protection throughout the Territory of the Republic of Belarus

Distribution of aliens applying for protection throughout the territory of the Republic of Belarus shall be carried out by the Department in accordance with the distributive registration quotas that are annually established by the Ministry of Internal Affairs of the Republic of Belarus for citizenship and migration units.

Article 34. Registration of Application for Protection

An application for protection shall be registered by the citizenship and migration unit at the alien's place of stay after interviewing him.

Alien over sixteen years of age shall receive certificates of application registration on the day of application registration, valid for the period of its review.

Certificate of application registration of an unmarried alien applying for protection, who is under sixteen years of age and who arrived in the Republic of Belarus unaccompanied by his legal representatives, shall be issued to his guardian or custodian.

Information on an alien under the age of sixteen who arrived together with the aliens applying for protection, shall be recorded in certificates of application registration of both parents, in absence of parents – in certificates of application registration of his legal representatives.

Alien's travel documents shall be removed at registration of his application for protection and will be kept by the citizenship and migration unit for the period of review of his application for protection.

Upon registration of application for protection the alien shall receive permission for temporary residence in the Republic of Belarus for the period of review of his application for protection.

Upon registration of his application for protection, the alien shall undergo mandatory state fingerprint registration and mandatory medical examination according to the procedure established by the legislation of the Republic of Belarus.

Article 35. Review of Application for Protection and Application for Extension of Complementary Protection by the Department and by Citizenship and Migration Units

At reviewing application for protection, in order to make a decision on granting or denying an alien in refugee status and/or complementary protection, the Department and citizenship and migration unit shall examine the following:

information acquired at interviewing the alien; information on the circumstances of the arrival of the alien in the Republic of Belarus, documents and materials provided by the alien;

information provided by the state security agencies of the Republic of Belarus on alien's eligibility as stipulated in Article 3 of this Law;

information provided by legal and physical persons required for the verification of the information provided by the alien;

information on the country of nationality or former habitual residence of the alien; other documents, materials, data and information relevant for making a decision on his application for protection;

At reviewing application for extension of complementary protection, the Department and citizenship and migration unit shall examine the documents, materials, data and information, as mentioned in Paragraphs Two, Four, Six – Eight of Part One of this Article

On the basis of the documents, materials, data and information, as mentioned in Parts One and Two of this Article, the Department and citizenship and migration unit form the materials of the case.

Article 36. Period of Review of Application for Protection and Application for Extension of Complementary Protection

An application for protection shall be reviewed within six months from the day of its registration unless this Law provides otherwise.

The Department may extend the period of review of an application for protection up to one year if determination of the alien's grounds for refugee status or complementary protection is complicated.

An application for extension of complementary protection shall be reviewed within two months from the day of its registration.

Article 37. Accelerated Review of Application for Protection

If, after interviewing an alien applying for protection, it becomes clear that his application for protection is manifestly unfounded or abusive, the citizenship and migration unit shall forward a relevant conclusion and the materials of the case to the Department within fifteen days upon registration of such an application.

The Department shall, within fifteen days upon the day of receipt of the relevant conclusion of the citizenship and migration unit and the materials of the case, make a decision on denying refugee status and complementary protection to the alien or forwarding the application for protection to the citizenship and migration unit for reviewing it according to the general procedure.

In case when an application for protection is reviewed according to the accelerated procedure, the state security agencies of the Republic of Belarus shall not be requested to provide information on eligibility of the alien applying for protection according to Article 3 of this Law.

An application for protection shall be considered manifestly unfounded, if the alien:

indicated in his application for protection reasons other than the reasons stipulated for granting refugee status or complementary protection;

did not provide any information on the reasons stipulated for granting refugee status or complementary protection; provided unfeasible or contradictory information relevant for making decision on the application for protection;

arrived from a safe country;

had been denied refugee status and/or complementary protection in the past, had left the Republic of Belarus and submitted a new application for protection, with the exception of the case of emergence of reasons for granting refugee status or complementary protection to him.

Application for protection shall be considered abusive if the alien:

during the process of review of his application for protection, deliberately misinforms relevant government agencies of the Republic of Belarus on issues of his personality identification, country of his nationality or former habitual residence, circumstances of his arrival in the Republic of Belarus, circumstances causing the alien's departure from the country of his nationality or former habitual residence, or he does not answer questions, or avoids answering questions;

presented counterfeit or forged travel documents or other documents and materials relevant for making a decision on his application for protection, claiming that they are authentic and without supplying any consistent explanations of the reasons for using them;

intentionally destroyed travel documents or other documents and materials relevant for making a decision on his application for protection;

had had an opportunity to submit an application for protection, however he submitted it only after detention by the border service agencies of the Republic of Belarus for illegal crossing the State border of the Republic of Belarus or for illegal stay on the territory of the Republic of Belarus or agencies of internal affairs of the Republic of Belarus for illegal stay on the territory of the Republic of Belarus;

submitted the application for protection with the view of avoiding deportation or expulsion from the Republic of Belarus.

Article 38. Review of Applications for Protection and Applications for Extension of Complementary Protection from Aliens Who Are Members of One Family

Review of applications for protection and applications for extension of complementary protection from aliens who are members of one family, shall be conducted individually for each family member.

If refugee status or complementary protection was granted or term of complementary protection was extended to an alien, then the members of his family who arrived together with him as well as aliens under the age of eighteen, whose legal representative he is, shall, in absence of grounds stipulated in Article 3 and Paragraph Seven of Part Two of Article 43 of this Law and in compliance with the principle of family unity, also be granted refugee status or complementary protection or the term of complementary protection granted to them shall be extended.

Chapter 8
