The comprehensive refugee response framework's (CRRF) implementation will provide valuable inputs for the development of the global compact on refugees. Many countries applying the CRRF have been responding to large movements of refugees for decades. With the CRRF requiring different ways of working with a range of actors, changes will take time and require new approaches. Join refugee and NGO speakers at this side event to hear about their experiences in different countries applying the CRRF. They will also discuss issues and make suggestions to help guide the process of implementation.
