

URGENT ACTION

DEFENDER RELEASED ON BAIL, BANNED FROM TRAVEL

Nabeel Rajab has been released on bail and his court session was adjourned until 20 January 2015. He has been banned from travelling.

Prominent human rights activist Nabeel Rajab was released on bail on 2 November, during a court hearing which was scheduled to issue the verdict in the case against him. His trial has been adjourned until 20 January 2015 and he has been issued with a travel ban. Amnesty International spoke with Nabeel Rajab who said that he learnt of the travel ban when reading a news statement. During the court hearing, the judge had confirmed to him that he was allowed to travel.

The charges of “publicly insulting official institutions” under Article 216 of Bahrain’s Penal Code have not been dropped. If convicted, he will face up to three years in prison.

Nabeel Rajab told Amnesty International that he would like to “thank all Amnesty International members and sections. Your efforts resulted in my release and I urge you to continue as there are hundreds of others who remain in prison”.

Please write immediately in English, Arabic or your own language:

- Calling on the Bahraini authorities to lift the travel ban against Nabeel Rajab and drop all charges against him as they relate to him peacefully exercising his right to freedom of expression;
- Urging them to uphold the right to freedom of expression and repeal laws that criminalize the peaceful exercise of the rights to freedom of expression, association and assembly including Article 216 of the Penal Code.
