Regional Highlights

- In an effort to better account for all South Sudanese refugees in Sudan, UNHCR and Commission of Refugees (COR) have amended the official population statistics to over 805,100 refugees. This now includes more than 352,400 South Sudanese individuals who were living in Sudan prior to December 2013, when conflict broke out in South Sudan. As returning to South Sudan is not considered a viable option for this population, the Government of Sudan considers them as refugees. The pre-December 2013 population was determined by UNHCR and partners in 2014 for the purpose of the Humanitarian Needs Overview process. The figure is based on data from the 5th Sudan Population and Housing Census of 2008, which was adjusted in 2014 to take into account the South Sudanese repatriation exercise of 2010, and further cross-referenced with pension records.
- As a result of the amended population figures in Sudan, the current regional population has been adjusted upwards to 2.48 million South Sudanese refugees. Over 3,000 South Sudanese refugees fled South Sudan into neighbouring countries during the first half of November.
- Almost two million in South Sudan facing emergency food insecurity and an estimated six million, or nearly half of the country's population are severely food insecure, according to a report released on 6 November by World Food Programme (WFP), Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) and UNICEF. The report highlights that the current situation is the result of ongoing conflict and warns that if the conflict continues the country could face famine in 2018.

CENTRAL AFRICAN REPUBLIC

Latest Developments

- On 14 November, a group of South Sudanese refugees attempted to loot food stocks from the African Initiatives for Relief and Development (AIRD) depot. Central African Armed Forces (FACA) and MINUSCA troops successfully contained the situation, though not before refugees had managed to break through the front door of the premises. Simultaneously, another group was prevented from approaching the UNHCR office with the same intention. One partner NGO staff member suffered light injuries in the incident. UNHCR subsequently met with refugee community leaders at the MINUSCA base and explained the arrangements for food distribution. The next food distribution had already been scheduled for 15 November and proceeded successfully. Refugees and displaced persons from Mboki and Zemio received 90 tonnes of maize (10.5kg per person), beans (3kg per person), fortified flour (2kg per person), and soap were distributed. Further distributions of salt and oil were planned for the following days.

- UNHCR installed 100 pit latrines and showers and started workings to transform three springs into protected water sources at the recently allocated Kaka refugee site in Dungu. With the support of refugees, UNHCR's partner AIRD cleared the land for the construction of 170 emergency and 200 transitional shelters. Some 300 refugees have settled on the grounds of the site at the beginning of October and are in desperate need of basic infrastructure and services, while others remain in the precarious border areas waiting to be relocated.

SUDAN

Latest developments

- In an effort to better account for all South Sudanese refugees in Sudan, UNHCR and Commission of Refugees (COR) have amended the official population statistics to over 805,100 refugees. This now includes more than 352,400 South Sudanese individuals who were living in Sudan prior to December

2013, when conflict broke out in South Sudan. As returning to South Sudan is not considered a viable option for this population, the Government of Sudan considers them as refugees. The pre-December 2013 population was determined by UNHCR and partners in 2014 for the purpose of the Humanitarian Needs Overview (HNO) process. The figure is based on data from the 5th Sudan Population and Housing Census of 2008, which was adjusted in 2014 to take into account the South Sudanese repatriation exercise of 2010, and further cross-referenced with pension records.

- UNHCR and COR have observed approximately 3,500 refugees in Kafia Kangi, South Darfur, during a mission in early November. The refugees reportedly arrived to the area near the border in September and October 2017, but a mission was only possible after the rainy season concluded and road conditions improved. As the area is remote with limited services, refugees have requested to be relocated to El Radom. The population will be registered and reflected in the population statistics once they are moved to El Radom later in November.
- According to the South Sudan Integrated Food Security Classification report released in October, almost 50 per cent of the South Sudan population will be acutely food insecure in early 2018, even after the harvest season. As this is anticipated to trigger further population movement into Sudan, UNHCR and RCF partners are taking the IPC conclusions into account in the 2018 contingency planning process initiated in November 2017. In the states generating refugees to Sudan, including Western Bahr el Ghazal, Northern Bahr el Ghazal, Warrap, Unity and Upper Nile, over 1 million people are estimated to be facing Phase 4 Emergency food insecurity, while another 1.89 million people are facing Phase 3 Crisis levels.
- After months of access restrictions, Government of Sudan authorities have agreed that a joint inter-agency assessment may go forward in all open areas hosting South Sudanese refugees in Khartoum. The mission has been tentatively scheduled for the week of 26 November, and will assess the situation of an estimated 47,000 refugees living in the open areas.

Achievements and Impact

- As of 15 November, 26 per cent of the estimated 805,100 South Sudanese refugees have undergone individual biometric registration by UNHCR and COR. A further 17 per cent have undergone pre-registration at the household level. UNHCR with COR are accelerating the roll out of biometric registration to all South Sudanese hosting sites, including in out-of-camp settlements in East Darfur and North Darfur, where the process is expected to begin by end of November. Biometric registration continues to be an essential protection and coordination tool, as it allows UNHCR and partners to more effectively target assistance, as well as track population movements.

- In the first half of November, UNHCR, through COR and State Councils of Child Welfare (SCCW), reunited 31 unaccompanied and separated children (UASC) from Kharasana, West Kordofan, with their families in Khartoum. In South Kordofan, UNHCR through SCCW provided another 80 UASC in Abu Jubaiha and El Leri with integration packages containing clothes, shoes, and hygiene items. Of the 442 UASC so far identified in the Kordofan states, 89 per cent have now received support through family tracing and reunification, foster arrangements, and/or integration packages.
- As part of UNHCR and UNDP agreement to scale up prevention and treatment of malaria in Sudan, under the Global Fund, a training on malaria case management was held for 40 health care providers from all eight camps in White Nile state. In early November, UNHCR also sensitized relevant state level government authorities about the project.
- UNHCR through ADRA is in the process of constructing 45 permanent classrooms to serve over 6,700 students in all White Nile camps. The additional classrooms are necessary to address overcrowding due to the large influx of refugees in 2017. Eight of the classrooms will be constructed in the Aljame'ya camp, which forms an extension of Al Waral.

UGANDA

Latest developments

- A total of 1,867 South Sudanese refugees arrived in Uganda in the first half of November, at an average daily rate of 124. New arrivals continue to report their reasons for flight as ongoing fighting between armed groups, the need to reunite with family members already in Uganda and the lack of food and basic services in South Sudan.
- Heavy fighting was reported on the South Sudan side of the border on 2 November near Kerwa Collection Centre, Yumbe. Ugandan authorities are closely monitoring the potential security risk of former combatants fleeing into Uganda. Police continue to patrol the border areas and settlements to maintain security for refugees and host communities.
- Heavy rains have disrupted the refugee response in West Nile, causing damage to infrastructure and adversely affecting delivery of services to refugees.

Achievements and Impact

- In Moyo, radio spots were broadcast on local radio with messages on early marriage, the importance of education, age of consent and prevention of violence against women and girls. The radio spots also disseminated a toll free number community members can call for protection issues.
- The identification of children separated from their families and children at risk continued. Home visits were carried out to assess the children's welfare and provide support, including psychosocial services, medical treatment and family tracing. To date, 6,954 vulnerable children, including UASC, have been identified in Bidibidi, 9,068 in Imvepi, 1,381 in Rhino Camp and 995 in Omugo.

- In Lamwo, a total of nine protection desks have been established across all zones of Palabek settlement to improve case management and response, and to support protection partners in the settlement. In Moyo, police posts were provided with the appropriate forms to enhance documentation of SGBV cases.
- In Arua, 26 protection staff attended a training workshop on psychosocial first aid in Omugo, equipping them to better respond to SGBV cases.
- In Bidibidi, youth across all five zones and in Yumbe District were mobilized to take part in ‘Bidibidi’s Got Talent’, a youth empowerment project focused on performing arts. The project was established in response to the lack of activities targeting youth and a sense of a lack of opportunities among refugee and host community youth. Many young people between the ages of 15 and 25 have registered to take part and auditions will take place from late November.
- In Imvepi, 15 primary school teachers and 10 secondary school teachers were recruited and trained to improve teacher-to-pupil ratios and the quality of teaching. Construction of thirteen blocks of semi-permanent classrooms continued.
- In Lamwo, Palabek settlement now has five fully functional health units, including a new health facility which opened in Zone 6 on 1 November. These health units operate to Ministry of Health standards and serve both refugees and host community.
- In the first week of November, general food distribution was carried out in Bidibidi Zone 1, delivering food to 54,744 individuals. Unlike in the previous distribution cycle, when refugees received half rations of cereal supplemented by cash, this month they received full rations of beans, corn, cooking oil and sorghum.
- The average safe water supply was 16 litres/person/day (l/p/d) in Bidibidi, 15 l/p/d in Adjumani and Lamwo, and 17 l/p/d in Moyo, compared to the UNHCR emergency standard of 15 l/p/d. Construction of boreholes and motorized water pumping systems is ongoing to reduce dependence on water trucking.

Critical Needs and Priorities

DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC OF THE CONGO

Nutrition: Refugees continuously reported that the amount of the monthly cash grants of 16 USD per person is not sufficient for a balanced diet. Malnutrition remains a serious concern with some 1,000 acute cases in Meri and 200 in Biringi.

Health: Some 20,000 refugees in Meri and Biringi do not have access to mosquito nets due to underfunding. Malaria remains the most prevalent disease at all refugee sites.

ETHIOPIA

Health: A mosquito net shortage is reported in all seven refugee camps in Gambella. Currently, some 100,000 Long Lasting Insecticidal Treated Nets (LLITNS) are needed.

KENYA

Education: Inadequate education facilities is causing school congestion and preventing the enrolment of out-of-school children. An insufficient number of teachers is also affecting education quality.

UGANDA

Protection: In Rhino Camp, lack of security lights in some of the zones in Ofua is a concern as it leaves the population vulnerable to SGBV and other security risks. In Arua, there is a need to strengthen the capacity of police in Omugo settlement to provide adequate security.

Education: In Bidibidi, accommodation for teachers is in inadequate condition. School latrines are in bad condition and urgently need to be emptied or decommissioned.

Health: The district requires stocks of tuberculosis and antiretroviral (ARV) drugs to be replenished. Adjumani District Hospital, which handles a high caseload of referrals from the refugee community, requires structured support to mitigate shortages of staff, medicines and health supplies. In the settlements, high staff turnover remains a challenge due to harsh living and working conditions.

Nutrition: In Rhino Camp, the supplementary feeding programme registered high defaulter rates exceeding the standard of 15 per cent. Nutrition partners are working to strengthen the engagement of village health teams in following up and tracking enrolled refugees.

WASH: In Rhino Camp, safe water supply stands at 11.6 l/p/d. Partners are working to motorize five water pumping systems in order to meet the minimum emergency water supply threshold of 15 litres per person per day.
