HUMAN RIGHTS COUNCIL
Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review
Seventh session
Geneva, 8-19 February 2010

COMPILATION PREPARED BY THE OFFICE OF THE HIGH COMMISSIONER FOR HUMAN RIGHTS, IN ACCORDANCE WITH PARAGRAPH 15(B) OF THE ANNEX
TO HUMAN RIGHTS COUNCIL RESOLUTION 5/1

San Marino*

The present report is a compilation of the information contained in the reports of treaty bodies, special procedures, including observations and comments by the State concerned, and other relevant official United Nations documents. It does not contain any opinions, views or suggestions on the part of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR), other than those contained in public reports issued by OHCHR. It follows the structure of the general guidelines adopted by the Human Rights Council. Information included herein has been systematically referenced in endnotes. The report has been prepared taking into consideration the four-year periodicity of the first cycle of the review. In the absence of recent information, the latest available reports and documents have been taken into consideration, unless they are outdated. Since this report only compiles information contained in official United Nations documents, lack of information or focus on specific issues may be due to non-ratification of a treaty and/or to a low level of interaction or cooperation with international human rights mechanisms.

* The present document was not edited before being sent to the United Nations translation services.

1. In 2003, the Committee on the Rights of the Child (CRC) encouraged San Marino to ratify and implement OP-CRC-SC and OP-CRC-AC.⁸ In 2007, the Committee on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (CESCR) encouraged accession to the International Labour Organization (ILO) Labour Inspection Convention, 1947 (No. 81), Social Security (Minimum Standards) Convention, 1952 (No. 102), Social Policy (Basic Aims and Standards) Convention, 1962 (No. 117) and Equality of Treatment (Social Security) Convention, 1962 (No. 118).⁹

B. Constitutional and legislative framework

2. While by virtue of Law No. 36 of 26 February 2002, international agreements on the protection of human rights and freedoms prevail over domestic legislation in case of conflict, the Human Rights Committee (HR Committee) noted that the exact status in domestic law of ICCPR and the Optional Protocol remained unclear. It recommended that San Marino clarify the exact status of these instruments in domestic law, as well as the relationship between ICCPR and the Declaration of Citizens' Rights and other parts of the constitutional order, so as to ensure full implementation of all ICCPR rights in all circumstances. In particular, San Marino should clarify whether a party to pending judicial proceedings may turn to the Guarantors' Panel on the constitutionality of rules and claim that a national law is in conflict with ICCPR.¹⁰

3. In 2007, CESCR noted that although ICESCR forms an integral part of domestic legislation, there was no court decision that mentioned or confirmed the direct applicability of its provisions.¹¹ CESCR encouraged the State party to ensure that the provisions of ICESCR are given effect by its domestic courts.¹²

4. In 2003, CRC encouraged San Marino to take all necessary measures to ensure that its domestic legislation conforms fully to the Convention on the Rights of the Child. In that regard, it recommended that San Marino carry out a comprehensive review of its ius commune to identify the provisions of domestic legislation which contradict the principles and provisions of the Convention.¹³

C. Institutional and human rights infrastructure

5. As of 14 October 2009, San Marino does not have a national human rights institution accredited by the International Coordinating Committee of National Institutions for the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights (ICC).¹⁴ In 2007, CESCR encouraged San Marino to pursue its efforts to establish an independent national human rights institution, in accordance with the Paris Principles, with a mandate to protect and promote all human rights.¹⁵ CRC and the HR Committee also made recommendations in this regard.¹⁶

6. While acknowledging that some form of Ombudsperson function has traditionally been conferred upon the Captains Regents (Head of State), the HR Committee noted that such a mechanism was not in accordance with the Paris Principles.¹⁷

D. Policy measures

7. In 2003, CRC recommended that San Marino systematically work on the development of a strong rights-based child policy covering all rights contained in the Convention on the Rights of the Child.¹⁸ It stressed that the principles of the best interests of the child (article 3) and respect for the views of the child (article 12) should be reflected in all policies and programmes relating to children.¹⁹

8. In 2005, San Marino adopted the Plan of Action (2005-2009) for the World Programme for Human Rights Education focusing on the national school system.²⁰

II. PROMOTION AND PROTECTION OF HUMAN RIGHTS ON THE GROUND

A. Cooperation with human rights mechanisms

1. Cooperation with treaty bodies

Treaty body²¹	Latest report submitted and considered	Latest concluding observations	Follow-up response	Reporting status
CERD	None	None		Initial to third reports overdue from 2003 to 2007 respectively

CAT	None	None		Initial report overdue since 2007
CRC	2002	October 2003		Second to fourth reports overdue since 2008

9. In 2008, the HR Committee observed that San Marino had resumed dialogue with a number of treaty bodies and noted its efforts to submit its overdue reports.²²

2. Cooperation with special procedures

Standing invitation issued	Yes
Latest visits or mission reports
Visits agreed upon in principle
Visits requested and not yet agreed upon
Facilitation/cooperation during missions
Follow-up to visits
Responses to letters of allegations and urgent appeals	No communications were sent to San Marino during the period under review.
Responses to questionnaires on thematic issues²³	San Marino responded to none of the 16 questionnaires sent by special procedures mandate holders. ²⁴

3. Cooperation with the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights

10. San Marino contributed financially to OHCHR in 2008²⁵ and 2009.²⁶

B. Implementation of international human rights obligations

1. Equality and non-discrimination

11. In 2007, CESCR highlighted the absence of a well-structured legal framework that provides protection against discrimination in all its forms.²⁷ The HR Committee was concerned that such non-discrimination grounds as sexual orientation, race, colour, language, nationality and national or ethnic origin were subsumed under the notion of ‘personal status’ in article 4 of the Declaration of Citizens’ Rights. It observed that such subsuming of grounds made it difficult to ensure their equal and comprehensive application. The HR Committee recommended the adoption of a comprehensive anti-discrimination legal framework which expressly indicates all those grounds of discrimination that are presently subsumed under the notion of “personal status”.²⁸

12. In 2007 CESCR was concerned by the use of concepts such as “legitimate children” and “natural children” in legal language, since distinctions based on such criteria may affect the enjoyment of all the rights established under ICESCR.²⁹ In 2003, CRC recommended that San Marino make greater efforts to ensure that all children within its jurisdiction enjoy all rights set out in the Convention on the Rights of the Child without discrimination.³⁰

13. In 2009, the ILO Committee of Experts on the Application of Conventions and Recommendations noted that Law No. 141 of 1990, aims at inter alia, promoting the integration of persons with disabilities in the labour market by means of quota systems, incentives for their recruitment and targeted professional training.³¹ The HR Committee welcomed the legislative and policy developments on various issues concerning disability, which enabled San Marino to ratify the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities and its Optional Protocol in 2008.³²

14. While noting that the rule whereby a foreigner is required to present a guarantor as a condition enabling him/her to start a civil action before the courts has become obsolete in practice, the HR Committee remained concerned that this discriminatory requirement still existed in domestic law. It recommended that San Marino formally abolish this rule.³³

2. Right to life, liberty and security of the person

15. A 2008 report by the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) indicated that San Marino approved the law on the prevention and punishment of violence against women, including domestic violence, on 20 June 2008. The law amends the Penal Code to, inter alia, increase the penalties for the crimes of homicide, violation of sexual freedom, and causing personal injuries when the perpetrator is a spouse or cohabitant.³⁴ According to the HR Committee, the law establishes a framework for State protection and assistance to the victims and their families in all civil, criminal or administrative proceedings, including through free legal assistance. The Committee recommended that San Marino adopt programmes and practical measures to combat all forms of gender-based violence, including training police to receive complaints of domestic violence, to provide material and psychological relief to the victims and to make women aware of their rights.³⁵

16. In 2006, the ILO Committee of Experts noted that the Penal Code and the Act for the repression of the sexual exploitation of minors No. 61 of 2002, provide for the prohibition of slave trading and trafficking, child prostitution, child pornography and forced labour.³⁶ In 2003, CRC was concerned about the lack of any concrete statistical data on cases of child abuse and neglect.³⁷ It recommended undertaking studies to assess the prevalence and nature of violence against children and develop a comprehensive plan of action, based on these studies, for the prevention of and intervention in cases of child abuse and neglect, including the provision of services for recovery and social reintegration of victims. It also recommended that San Marino undertake awareness-raising campaigns on the negative impact of corporal punishment.³⁸

3. Administration of justice and the rule of law

17. The HR Committee noted the adoption of Law No. 93 of 17 June 2008 on fair trial guarantees and recommended that San Marino further prioritize its work to draft and adopt a new comprehensive code of criminal procedure that will be in compliance with ICCPR.³⁹

18. The HR Committee was concerned that immediate access to a lawyer by an arrested person who is unable to pay for the services of a lawyer might be impeded by the way the free legal assistance scheme is framed. It recommended that San Marino guarantee the right to have free legal assistance in any case where the interests of justice so require.⁴⁰

4. Right to privacy, marriage and family life

19. In 2007, CESCR expressed concern at the definition of the family provided in San Marino's report. According to the Committee, that type of definition excluded single-parent families and impaired their access to the various forms of support granted by the State, including family allowances.⁴¹

20. In 2003, concern was expressed by CRC about possible irregularities regarding intercountry adoptions. It highlighted the fact that the Registry Office did not make any reference to the natural parents of adopted children, which implied that such children did not have the right to know their natural parent(s). CRC recommended that San Marino provide the child with the right to know, as far as possible, his/her natural parent(s). It also encouraged the ratification of the 1993 Hague Convention on Protection of Children and Co-operation in Respect of Intercountry Adoption.⁴² In 2008, CESCR welcomed the accession of San Marino to this Convention.⁴³

5. Freedom of religion or belief, expression, association and peaceful assembly, and right to participate in public and political life

21. In 2008, the Special Rapporteur on freedom of religion or belief referred to the case of Buscarini and others v. San Marino at the European Court of Human Rights (ECHR). The applicants in this case had been elected to the General Grand Council of the Republic of San Marino whose members have to swear an oath "on the Holy Gospels" before taking office. According to the Special Rapporteur, the ECHR found that requiring the applicants to take the oath on the Gospels was tantamount to requiring two elected representatives of the people to swear allegiance to a particular religion, a requirement which was not compatible with article 9 (right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion) of the European Convention on Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms.⁴⁴

22. In 2008, the HR Committee was concerned by the potentially far-reaching scope of application of articles 183, 184 and 185 of the Criminal Code (protection of the right to reputation), such as criminalization of 'ascribing a fact which injures honour'. It recommended that San Marino review its Criminal Code with a view to bringing the provisions criminalizing various forms of expression and communication affecting honour, decency and esteem into compliance with ICCPR.⁴⁵

23. While noting the exceptional circumstance of possible general military mobilization under article 4 of Law No. 15 of 26 January 1990, the HR Committee remained concerned about article 3 of the Law, according to which San Marino citizens may be obliged to serve in the military from 16 to 60 years of age. It recommended the amendment of the law in order to provide that the entitlement to conscientious objection is expressly recognized and that the minimum age for service is raised.⁴⁶

24. A 2009 United Nations Statistics Division source indicated that the proportion of seats held by women in the national parliament decreased from 16.7 per cent in 2005 to 15.0 per cent in 2009.⁴⁷

6. Right to work and to just and favourable conditions of work

25. In 2007, CESCR expressed concern at the use by the State party of temporary and consultancy contracts, since such contracts may affect the enjoyment of just and favourable working conditions.⁴⁸ It requested that San Marino provide detailed information on the working conditions of persons employed as consultants and those on temporary contracts.⁴⁹

26. In 2009, the ILO Committee of Experts noted San Marino's indication that Law No. 40 of 1981 requires the adoption of common criteria for women and men under the job classification systems used to determine remuneration rates. The ILO Committee of Experts, considered, however, that it was not clear whether these common criteria would also be applied when comparing jobs of a different nature. It asked San Marino to indicate any judicial or administrative decisions applying Law No. 40 in line with the principle of the ILO Equal Remuneration Convention. It also asked about the job classification methods used in accordance with the Law and the manner whereby it ensures that the criteria followed are not intrinsically discriminatory and do not undervalue jobs traditionally performed by women.⁵⁰

27. In 2006, the ILO Committee of Experts noted that according to resolution No. 1 of 2002, no authorization shall be given by the Employment Office to a worker under 18 years of age to carry out tasks considered at high risk.⁵¹ The ILO Committee of Experts requested indications on the measures adopted or envisaged to specify where the types of work exist which, by their nature or the circumstances in which they are carried out, are likely to harm the health, safety or morals of young persons.⁵²

28. In 2007, CESCR observed that certain provisions of Law No. 42 excluded non-nationals with only resident status from certain social benefits such as unemployment benefit in the event of a suspension or reduction of their employment.⁵³ It recommended that San Marino study the possibility of reviewing its social security mechanisms in order to ensure that non-nationals are not excluded from certain forms of social security.⁵⁴ In 2009, the ILO Committee of Experts noted that the number of foreigners working in San Marino had increased. It requested information, including statistical data disaggregated by sex, on the situation of foreigners in the labour market and on the measures taken or envisaged to foster equality of opportunity and treatment in employment and occupation, irrespective of race, colour and national extraction or social origin, as well as on their impact.⁵⁵

7. Right to social security and to an adequate standard of living

29. In 2007, CESCR was concerned that the level of social pension did not provide a decent standard of living for pensioners was a subject of concern for CESCR in 2007.⁵⁶ It encouraged San Marino to consider increasing the allowances financed directly through income tax, in particular the amount of the social pension, in order to ensure a decent standard of living for these persons.⁵⁷

30. With respect to the very high prevalence of obesity among children, CRC recommended that San Marino continue and strengthen its special programmes to address this issue and promote a healthy life style.⁵⁸

31. CESCR encouraged San Marino in 2007 to adopt structured measures to combat HIV/AIDS.⁵⁹

8. Right to education and to participate in the cultural life of the community

32. In 2006, the ILO Committee of Experts noted that section 11 of the Declaration of Citizens' Rights provides for free education at all levels of compulsory schooling and a substantial financial contribution for all those who wish to continue their studies in San Marino or abroad. It also noted that education is compulsory in San Marino until the age of 16.⁶⁰

9. Minorities and indigenous peoples

33. The HR Committee noted the assertion by San Marino that there are no ethnic, linguistic and/or religious national minorities in the country, and observed that the identification of the presence in the territory of any country of such minorities was not so much a matter of policy or law as of fact. It stated that the State party should consider whether, in particular in view of immigration trends in recent years, ethnic minorities exist on its territory, even if in very small numbers, and take the necessary steps to protect their rights under article 27 of ICCPR.⁶¹

10. Migrants, refugees and asylum-seekers

34. Noting that 16 per cent of the inhabitants of San Marino were of foreign origin, the HR Committee was concerned that acquiring citizenship in the State party was effectively precluded even for long-term inhabitants, first requiring a presence of five years on a staying permit, then followed by 30 years of continuous presence on a residence permit, and finally, a decision of the parliament that is taken only once every 10 years. The HR Committee recommended that San Marino re-examine the extraordinary length and practical difficulties of acquiring citizenship for long-term residents.⁶²

35. In 2007, CECSR noted with satisfaction the adoption of Law No. 84 of 17 June 2004, which recognizes the right of both parents to transmit their citizenship to their children.⁶³ While noting the adoption of Law No. 84, the HR Committee remained concerned that differences still exist between children whose parents are naturalized and who may acquire citizenship immediately, and the children of a couple where one of the parents has been naturalized and the other parent has kept his/her foreign nationality, who can acquire citizenship only when they become 18. It recommended that San Marino amend the law so as to ensure that children are not discriminated against on the ground of the nationality of any one parent and in particular ensure equal right to acquisition of citizenship, irrespective of whether both or only one of the parents are naturalized San Marino citizens.⁶⁴

11. Human rights and counter-terrorism

36. The HR Committee was concerned that the scope of the limitations on the right to privacy in Law No. 28 of 26 February 2004 entitled "Provisions to combat terrorism, laundering of illegal proceeds and insider trading" remained unclear. It recommended that San Marino apply this law in a manner compatible with article 17 of ICCPR and ensure that any future law on wire and phone tapping for investigation purposes is compatible with the Covenant. In addition, San Marino should ensure that its counter-terrorism measures, whether taken in connection with Security Council resolution 1373 (2001) or otherwise, are in full conformity with ICCPR and in particular that the legislation adopted in this context is limited to crimes that would justify being characterized as terrorist crimes.⁶⁵

III. ACHIEVEMENTS, BEST PRACTICES, CHALLENGES AND CONSTRAINTS

37. CESCR highlighted in 2007 that the right to adequate housing is respected in San Marino and that 80 per cent of the population own the housing units in which they live.⁶⁶ In 2003, CRC noted with appreciation that all children with disabilities were in regular schools with the exception of severely disabled children.⁶⁷

IV. KEY NATIONAL PRIORITIES, INITIATIVES AND COMMITMENTS

Specific recommendations for follow-up

38. In July 2008, the HR Committee requested that San Marino provide, within one year, relevant information on the implementation of the recommendations of the Committee regarding the establishment of an independent monitoring mechanism for the implementation of ICCPR rights and the adoption of a comprehensive anti-discrimination legal framework.⁶⁸ As of 17 November 2009, the Committee had not received the follow-up report.

V. CAPACITY-BUILDING AND TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE

39. CESCR urged San Marino to make an effort to allocate 0.7 per cent of its GNP to development assistance by the year 2015, in accordance with the Millennium Development Goals.⁶⁹
